KATHY ARCHIBALD

RECITES HUTCHISON PIECE

B.C. Girl Learns Fate Saturday

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—Stately five-foot eight-inch 133-pound Kathy Archibald, Miss Canada, anxiously awaited the decision of the judges to learn her fate in the Miss America contest Saturday.

The Kelowna lovely went through her talent performance Thursday night with a recitation, "Canada the Unknown" from "The Unknown Country," by Bruce Hutchison.

The experts were up against it today. They couldn't pick a favorite at this late stage in the judging for the top beauty.

This year there doesn't seem to be a standout.

The so-called experts talk about Carol Segermark, who is Miss Chicago. Also about Miss Pennsylvania, Evelyn Ay, and likewise Miss Wisconsin, and Miss Oregon and a lot of other misses and near misses.

All of which simmers down to this: Up to now there are four girls in the running and any one of them—or all—could stub a toe or lose a treble.

Labor Declares War on GOP As Durkin Quits

WASHINGTON (UP)—Union leaders today took the resignation of Labor Secretary Martin P. Durkin as a signal for open political warfare with the Eisenhower administration over revision of the Taft-Hartley Law.

They predicted that any attempt by President Eisenhower to heal the breach by bringing another union leader into his cabinet will be rebuffed.

Durkin, president of the AFL Plumbers' Union and the only Democrat in the Eisenhower cabinet, resigned Thursday with an angry blast at administration handling of the Taft-Hartley revision issue.

"Now we'll take off the gloves," said a union source when Durkin's resignation was announced.

NEW MOROCCO SULTAN RUN DOWN BY CAR

RABAT, Morocco (CP)—A high-powered car today ran down the new Sultan of Morocco as he was riding on horseback to pray at the Touara mosque here.

The 64-year-old ruler was hurled to the ground. His guards opened fire, killing the driver.

Toronto Milk Drivers Reject New Agreement

Action Follows Acceptance by Union Leaders

TORONTO (BUP)—Striking AFL milk truck drivers crossed up their union leaders today and turned down a settlement offer that would have ended the city's one-day milk strike.

The 1,700 drivers refused to accept a provision in the agreement making a five-day delivery week mandatory, although the Ontario Milk Control Board has made the provision law.

Labor Minister Charles Daley, who negotiated all night to reach the agreement, has said he was ready to start all over again tonight if the drivers turned down the agreement.

The strike that cut off milk deliveries to 400,000 families burst into controversy and actual violence hours after it was called Thursday, to climax months of argument over cutting deliveries.

Two strikers were arrested on charges of malicious damage and aggravated assault when five drivers for two non-striking dairies were beaten up while making deliveries.

Fred Withylan, one of the beaten drivers, said four men overtook his truck, dumped its milk on the road, and attacked him. He required hospital treatment.

"There was milk all over the truck," he said. "One big boy caught me a couple of good belts and put the boots to me but I managed to kick back."

The union and distributors had arranged for expectant mothers, babies and those on special diets to obtain milk if a doctor's certificate were presented at a dairy.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Seattle tanker Dulcinea found herself stranded high and dry today when she hitched a ride on a log boom.

North Korea Chiefs Meet With Molotov

MOSCOW (UP) — Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov conferred today with a delegation of North Korean leaders including Premier and Commander-in-Chief Kim Il Sung and Foreign Minister Nam Il.

Pravada welcomed the visitors to Moscow with an editorial saying the Soviet Union will do everything possible to insure a "peaceful life" for their people.

State of Emergency

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—A state of emergency was declared here today as the result of a series of underground explosions that killed a woman, injured 62 persons and caused an estimated $5,000,000 damage late Thursday.

RAF Jet Crashes Into Woolwich Arsenal in Flames

WOOLWICH, Eng. (UP)—A British air force jet plane crashed into the explosive "danger" area of Woolwich Arsenal and burst into f es today after colliding with another jet in the air.

The two planes, both Meteors, collided in the Woolwich area. One managed to land at nearby North Weald air force base. The other plunged into the arsenal near buildings where hundreds of employees were working. The pilot, seriously injured, was taken to a hospital while firemen of the Woolwich and South London fire brigades put out the flames with chemicals.

Sudan Election Set for Nov. 2

KHARTOUM, Sudan (Reuters)—The five-country Sudan electoral commission announced Thursday night that elections to set up the first legislature will be held between November 2 and December 7, with all results to be known by December 10. The commission is composed of Sudanese, Egyptian, United States, British and Indian representatives.

Defiant Douks Hunger Strike at Oakalla Jail

Their Birth To Be Legalized

Typical of the 103 children of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors who have been taken over by the B.C. government and placed in charge of the Children's Welfare Home at New Denver, are Christine Perekoff, right, and Eileen Lastoff. It was indicated today by Premier Bennett that recognition of Doukhobor marriage laws is included in the legislation to be presented at the session opening Tuesday. At present all Doukhobor children are looked upon by the law as being illegitimate. (SNS Photo.)

148 Prisoners Snub Food After Weird Court Scene

By BRUCE LEVETT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vegetarian Doukhobors, foodless for more than 24 hours, went on a hunger strike today in Oakalla Prison Farm.

The 148 prisoners, charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency by nude parading, had refused to eat since they were herded aboard a prison train from their Slocan valley tent town Wednesday.

They entered Oakalla at midnight following a bizarre court scene in a tiny municipal hall and this morning officials of the warden's office announced that they had refused breakfast.

"They didn't get bedded down until nearly 3 a.m.," the official said. "We sent down cooked cereal to them when they started getting up at 9 o'clock, but they did not touch it.

"They can't cook their own food yet, we haven't got the stoves set up for them."

Warden Hugh Christie said a prayer session was held in the confines of the women's hut with some of the prisoners lying naked on the floor as they prayed.

Prisoners range in age from teen-aged bobby-soxers to aged, white-bearded men.

Warden Christie said only some of the very old were given "a little soup as a special dispensation," by others of their sect.

His men will not interfere with prayer sessions held inside the huts, Warden Christie said. The Doukhobors were segregated due to necessity and not because of prison policy.

John Kominoff, spokesman for the prisoners, said he did not know when the fast might end.

"We will know when to eat when the time comes," he said. "A message from God will tell us."

The prisoners were passengers aboard a Canadian Pacific Railway prison rain which arrived here Thursday night from Perry Siding, 39 miles northwest of Nelson, B.C. They were occupants of the tent town of Polatka, ordered emptied by RCMP.

TV Cameras Record Scenes

The accused, arraigned before Magistrate Graham Ladner in a small community hall in suburban Burnaby in a court scene described as "weird" by RCMP guards, were remanded until Sept. 17 for hearing.

On their arrival they were ushered from three CPR prison coaches to four express buses.

About 25 newspaper men from Vancouver, Victoria and Toronto watched as photographers fired dozens of flashbulbs and television cameras recorded the scene.

From the downtown station, the buses, convoyed by city police motorcycles and RCMP radio cars, carried the accused men and women 10 miles to Jubilee Labor Hall, one mile from Oakalla.

The prisoners, guards, plainclothes men, newspaper men and interpreters crammed into the small auditorium while a large crowd gathered outside.

The Doukhobors, reputedly all members of the Radical Sons of Freedom sect, sat quietly for nearly an hour waiting for the magistrate to arrive.

It was 10 p.m. when an unidentified woman began haranguing the prisoners from her seat near the front, shouting in Russian.

Over the stage, where the makeshift magistrate's bench had been set up, was the motto, "Human Needs Before Property Rights," chiselled in stone.

The harangue broke off and the prisoners began to chant, louder and louder as the RCMP guards—12 in uniform—moved relentlessly up and down the aisles. A pigtailed girl of about 15, one of the prisoners, cried with her head in her hands and the crowd began to sing "Nearer My God to Thee" in Russian, eight-part harmony.

The crying girl collapsed into the arms of another teenager and was assisted by RCMP guards and a matron outside to the darkened buses. Perspiration rolled from the faces of the singing Doukhobors and guards doled out water from an old kettle and a coffee pot.

One guard, assisting an aged man, muttered "weird."

Likely to Make Child Delinquent

When order was restored, Capt. Vladimir Pogoretzsky, interpreter from Nelson, read the names of the 148 accused and the charge was read by Crown Prosecutor John Farris, QC.

"You are each charged that on Wednesday, Sept. 9, 1953, at Perry Siding, B.C., you did unlawfully and willingly do an act likely to make a child a delinquent—to wit, expose his or her naked body in the presence of a child contrary to laws and statutes so provided," the charge read.

Disorder broke out again when Mr. Farris said an additional charge of being nude in a public place would be laid next week.

A Doukhobor indentifying himself as William Postnikoff made an angry statement in Russian which was interpreted as a demand that Premier Bennett, Attorney-General Bonner and Doukhobor spiritual leader Sorokin be called to attend the Sept. 17 hearing "as mediators."

Sorokin, spokesman for the more moderate sons, is in South America investigating settlement possibilities for the 2,500-member sect there.

(Jailed Sons of Freedom Doukhobor's request that Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Robert Bonner act as intermediaries at their trials was rejected today.

"I haven't heard of any such demand," Mr. Bonner said, "but it is most irregular. I see no reason to act as intermediary. The matter is now before the courts."

Premier Bennett said he had no official request.)

Postnikoff's demand went unanswered by Magistrate Ladner.

The prisoners were rounded up Wednesday night in the Slocan Valley tent town they had set up after their homes were destroyed in recent fire raids blamed on members of their own sect.

They were seized in a military-like raid ordered after they refused either to disperse or send their children to school, which they claim is against their religion. They gave up without resistance.

Red Admits Allied PWs Held Back

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A Red source admitted today for the first time that the Communists are holding back some Allied war prisoners who want to go home.

A Communist correspondent, Wilfred Burchett, said a crack U.S. jet pilot and an undisclosed number of other Allied airmen are being held as special prisoners because the Communists say they were shot down over Manchuria—forbidden territory to Allied pilots in the Korean war.

Burchett of the Paris L'Humanite, who often reflects official Red thinking, said release of the airmen would have to be negotiated through "diplomatic channels," but he did not elaborate.

The Allied command demanded Wednesday that the Reds account for about 3,500 Allied troops—three of them Canadians—who were known once to be prisoners, but who were not released in the recent PW exchange.

The Communists have indicated they would reject the demand, but have not said when they would reply officially.

An Indian spokesman said today the Indian custodial forces expect to receive in a few days, possibly Monday, the first Communist-held Allied prisoners refusing to go home.

Little is known about the Americans and South Koreans who refused to take part in "Big Switch." Not even the number is certain, although the Communists indicated there were "about 20" non-Koreans and some 380 South Koreans who have elected to remain behind the Iron Curtain.

Douks to Get B.C. Vote, Marriages Recognized

Premier Bennett Hints Legislation Ready for New Session of House

Legislation giving B.C.'s Doukhobor population the right to vote and recognition of their marriage ceremony will be introduced at the coming session of the Legislature, Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated today.

The premier, asked about these two phases of the Doukhobor rehabilitation proposal recommended by the Doukhobor consultative committee, said:

"Our policy is to give full citizenship rights to these people. There will be no delay in our program."

The Doukhobors have never voted in B.C., and their "bread and salt" marriage ceremony, conducted without the presence of clergy, is not recognized.

Thus their children have no real status.

Premier Bennett said the government expects the Doukhobors, in return for the new privileges, to take on the responsibility of citizenship.

"We will treat them fairly," he said.

CALLS FOR SUPPORT

Premier Bennett, referring to the government's current efforts to get Doukhobor children to school and the resulting acts of violence, asked for the support of all citizens during "this trying period."

"This is one of the many problems to which this government fell heir," he said. "There is no patent medicine solution to a problem of this nature."

Meanwhile, the government is putting the final touches to its new "drinks-by-the-glass" liquor legislation which will be presented to a government caucus Monday at 10 a.m.

The caucus discussion may result in some changes to the proposed legislation before it reaches the floor of the House.

Details of the revised drinking laws are a well-kept secret but Premier Bennett has said the system will follow closely that recommended by the Stevens Commission, which held public hearings around the province.

This will mean B.C. will have cocktail lounges in hotels, a new beer parlor system, to be known as a "public house" system, which will allow sale of food with beer, and sale of liquor in restaurants.

HOT DEBATE SEEN

The liquor legislation undoubtedly will be one of the most hotly debated of the session.

The government, it is understood, has had a difficult time drafting a suitable local option clause for the revamped distribution system. This is one of the phases bound to spark spirited debate.

The government's Rolston Formula, a new school financing system, may not produce the fireworks it did last March when the issue defeated the minority government.

Reason is that the most controversial part of the plan, that dealing with sales tax shares to municipalities and fixing the basis for educational grants, may be held over until February session.

WAR ON WASPS

THIRD IN A SERIES

Single Yellow Jacket Sting Can Be Fatal, Savant Says

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL

If wasps possessed no sting they would be nothing more than a nuisance because of their persistent buzzing about our food and our persons.

However, to receive a sting from a wasp is no light matter and under certain conditions it can be extremely serious indeed.

Dr. Carl

Normally, the wasp uses the sting for killing or paralyzing its insect prey; it will turn on a human only when provoked. Usually this is accidental as when the wasp is squeezed or injured by placing the hand or other part of the body on the insect when it is going about its own business.

On such occasions a single sting usually results, and unless it is on the face it amounts to no more than a local irritation with minor swelling which may persist for several days.

It is a different matter when the nest is disturbed. When this occurs the insects swarm out in a mass attack and the visitor, whether guilty or innocent, may receive a large number of stings before getting clear of the pests.

Children particularly get badly stung on these occasions because they seldom sense what is happening in time to retreat quickly. Moreover, because of their smaller body weight and lack of immunity the reaction is much more severe than in the case of an adult.

A badly stung child may need medical attention and possibly hospitalization.

While multiple stings are usually not fatal, a single sting in the back of the mouth or in the throat may well cause death by asphyxia. In this location the swelling cuts off the air from the lungs so that unless medical aid is given very soon the victim dies.

Such a fatality occurred in Victoria some years ago when a man drank a glass of fruit juice in the dark. The glass apparently contained a wasp which had fallen into the liquid during the day but which was still lively enough to sting though half-drowned.

The chances of recurrence of this accident are extremely remote but real danger exists where people are eating and drinking out-of-doors in wasp-infested areas.

On such occasions care should be taken to keep the insects away from the food and each mouthful should be examined to prevent a wasp entering the mouth.

The stinger of a wasp, like that of a bee, is a modified ovipositer; instead of being used for laying eggs it functions as a hypodermic needle, piercing the skin of the victim and injecting venom.

Essentially, it is a lancet-shaped or spear-shaped organ consisting of two halves concave on their inner surface to form a tube through which the poison is pumped.

As the insect stings, the two halves of the dart are thrust downward alternately and very rapidly being guided by parts of a surrounding sheathe.

In bees the darts have recurved hooks near the tip so that the organ can not be easily removed. Usually the bee escapes by tearing the stinger loose from her body leaving it in the victim; mortally wounded the insect eventually dies.

This is not so in the case of the wasp. Because the stinger has no hooks it can be removed and used over and over again.

During the season a number of males and females develop in the colony in addition to the workers and the queen.

With the first cold weather the males and the workers die and the fertilized females seek some shelter in which to pass the winter. This may be in cracks or crevices around trunks of trees, under loose bark or in rubbish piles; a favorite place is in wood stacked out-of-doors.

Since the survivors each become a queen of a new colony in the spring a severe winter is the best natural control for these pests. The large number of wasps this year is partly the result of the mild weather we experienced the previous winter and if our next cold season does not bring with it a period of freezing weather we can expect another good crop of yellow jackets to plague us next summer.

Them Douks would hev bin favorites o' President Roosevelt. They were ill-housed in th' tents, ill-clothed in th' parades, an' now they're ill-fed in their hunger strike.

* * *

They may be tryin' t' stress artistic talent at them beauty contests, but it don't photograph so good.

Funny so many folks are keen t' git in at th' openin' o' th' House an' th' closin', but don't worry much about whut goes on in th' middle.

HOWE ANNOUNCES PAYMENTS

$100 Million for 1952 Crop Builds Farmer Bank Deposits

OTTAWA (BUP) — Western farmers who may run short of cash because of their inability to deliver grain to congested elevators will receive $100,000,000 this fall on last year's crop.

The money represents profits realized by the Canadian Wheat Board on wheat, oats and barley produced in 1952 and delivered to the wheat board before the end of the last crop year, July 31.

Trade Minister C. D. Howe announced today following a series of meetings with wheat board officials that $64,000,000 would be mailed out to farmers in interim payment cheques on last year's wheat crop, starting Oct. 1. It will amount to 12 cents per bushel.

A further final payment on last year's wheat crop will be made early next year. Howe said that so much of last year's crop was still stored unsold that the board could not yet determine what the final payment would be.

After the wheat payment cheques are mailed, final payments will be made on last year's oats and barley crops. The exact price is still to be computed, but the profits run to about $36,000,000.

REDS SEEK TO 'INFILTRATE' UN, McCARTHY CHARGES

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), said today his Senate investigating subcommittee is looking into Communist attempts to "infiltrate" the United Nations.

He said a witness at a closed session Thursday told of Communist efforts to make the UN "an instrument of value to the party."

The witness—whom McCarthy did not identify except to describe him as a "high functionary" of the party for 21 years—was scheduled to appear at an open hearing of the subcommittee today.

DOUKS TO GET VOTE

The remaining section dealing with equailzation of assessments throughout the province is not so controversial. Thus the Rolston Formula debate might be less lively than expected.

TAXATION PROBLEM

Top of the taxation change legislation is the government plan to place a 10 per cent tax on logging and mining company profits above $25,000.

Main opposition to this proposal will come from the four-man Liberal group in the House. The CCF is in favor of more taxes on natural resources, and actually claims the Socreds have stolen a plank from their platform.

Another taxation change, which will affect most British Columbians, is the plan to remove the sales tax on meals which cost less than $1.

A third will be a 10 per cent cut in car licenses, effective next year.

Premier Bennett has promised big changes in the Elections Act at this session, and the betting is he will abolish the controversial alternative voting system used in B.C. for the first time in 1952.

CCF SUPPORT LIKELY

If the government proposes this, it is certain to get CCF support.

The government is not expected to introduce legislation providing for hospital insurance premium exemption for low income brackets.

The proposal is on the books, but not likely to be brought in until the February session when a new budget is presented. Such a move would require provision in the budget.

A legislative committee will be appointed to re-draw the province's electoral boundaries to bring about more equal representation in the House. This will be a task which will take several years, and the committee will sit between sessions.

Premier Bennett has rejected suggestions that a judicial committee be struck to do the job.

The September program of legislation is essentially the same as the one the government placed before the House in the spring, but couldn't complete because of its defeat.

Powell River Boat Service Once a Week

Once-weekly steamship service between Vancouver and Powell River will be provided by the CPR this winter.

The company had previously announced complete suspension of the Powell River run, but an announcement Thursday stated that, effective September 27, Princess Elaine will leave Vancouver Sundays at 8 p.m., arrive at Westview 12.30 a.m. Mondays, and leave there at 2 p.m. for arrival back in Vancouver at 7.15 p.m.

The company has also announced suspension for the winter of two other services: Victoria-Port Angeles and Vancouver-Alaska.

The Alaska run is regularly taken off each winter. This was the first year the CPR has operated a Port Angeles service, and the intention was to operate in the busy summer months only.

Princess of Alberni will maintain its regular winter service to the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

At one time, Alfred Lord Tennyson was poet-laureate of England.

Development of Island Park Urged by Climber

The immediate development of Vancouver Island's Strathcona Park was urged today by Dr. W. E. M. Mitchell, president of the Victoria section of the Alpine Club of Canada.

Dr. Mitchell was one of the leaders of an expedition into Strathcona Park which scaled Big Interior Mountain, one of the Island's major peaks, over the Labor Day week-end.

"It is a beautiful park," said Dr. Mitchell, "something should be done to develop it and make it accessible to the public."

Pending the development of the park, Dr. Mitchell said the provincial government should maintain the trails in the park, including one small cabin near Della Falls.

He said this cabin was maintained by the Forestry Department, but has now been allowed to go to pieces. The cabin is needed to provide shelter for people who enter the park, he said.

NEAR DELLA FALLS

Big interior mountain which was climbed by 13 members of the Alpine Club is 6,107 feet high. It is situated near Della Falls, about 10 miles north of Great Central Lake.

Others in the party were Maj. Rex Gibson of Saanichton, David Francis, Nigel Scott-Moncrieff, Margery Thomas, Pete Thomas, Derek Hawkins, Bob Taylor, Cyril Jones (city engineer), all from Victoria, and Dr. Roger Stanier, Berkeley, Calif.; Sydney Watts, Duncan; Connie Bonner, Cobble Hill, and G. B. Capes, Courtenay.

To reach the summit of the peak, the climbers had to cross open crevasses, scale steep cliffsides and walk across treacherous snow which covered glaciers at high altitudes.

Members of the party said the view from the summit of Big Interior was "magnificent."

While on top of the peak, the mountaineers took a good look at Mount Septimus, 6,200 feet, which they hope to climb on Labor Day week-end next year. It is an imposing peak with a glacier.

AVERAGE FAMILY SPENDS $7.52 PER PERSON ON FOOD WEEKLY

OTTAWA (BUP)—The average Canadian family living in the big cities spends $7.52 per person per week on food, the Bureau of Statistics said today.

It based its figures on a survey conducted during the last four months of 1952 in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Some 200 families averaging 3.18 persons were surveyed each month, and the study was made among families with an annual income of between $1,800 and $6,500.

The bureau said meat was the largest item in the average food budget, accounting for $1.68 of the $7.52 total.

Moderator Appeals For Church Workers

Shortage of ministers, doctors, nurses and teachers for the far-flung work of the United Church of Canada is a matter of some concern to the moderator, Rt. Rev. A. A. Scott, DD, of Toronto, attending the traveling exposition of his church here.

There is an immediate need, he said today, for 1,000 new, full-time workers, willing to serve at home or abroad.

Dr. Scott, who heads the largest Protestant church group in Canada, admitted its concern over the shortage of young men entering the ministry.

"There are not nearly as many as we would like," he said. "But then, there always has been a shortage as long as I can remember."

He thought the exposition, in this regard, would set before young people the opportunities for service existing in church work, and might aid recruitment.

Main purpose of the exposition is to make visible and tangible to all church members the work being undertaken by the church.

"They see this and know what the church stands for and where their money goes," he said. "I've found it very enlightening myself."

WORKED IN INDIA

Dr. Scott, a veteran of many years missionary work in India, was guest of honor Thursday night at a banquet in First United Church Hall, attended by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Mayor Claude Harrison and church and lay people from various Island points.

Australian Astronomer Visits Here

One of the world's leading astronomers, Dr. A. R. Hogg, assistant director of the Commonwealth Observatory, Canberra, Australia, today visited the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Little Saanich Mountain.

He conferred with the astronomers and inspected the 73-inch telescope, which is the same as one now being installed at Mount Stromlo, Canberra.

Dr. Hogg is completing a four-month visit on this continent. He came from Australia on a Fulbright exchange scheme for scientists to conduct astronomical observations at Lick Observatory, Mount Hamilton, California.

In a year or two, Dr. Hogg said, Mount Stromlo will have the greatest concentration of large telescopes in the southern hemisphere.

As well as his own observatory, there is one operated jointly by the U.S. universities of Yale and Columbia, and another is being built by a Swedish university.

The Price of Oil

THE USERS OF GASOLINE AND furnace oil in British Columbia think that the price of these products is too high. The oil companies reply that the price is reasonable and has not risen since the war as much as the prices of most other products.

No layman can possibly judge the figures presented by the oil companies. They are complicated far beyond the understanding of the ordinary consumer. He suspects, however, that the recent increase in the price of motor and furnace fuel is the direct result of the abolition of the former legal controls.

There is no certain evidence to support that conclusion. Even if legal controls had remained in effect prices certainly would have risen if the oil companies could prove the need of them to the control authorities. The parallel case of the B.C. Electric shows that control does not necessarily hold down prices. Electric rates have risen under control whenever the power company has satisfied the Public Utilities Commission that its costs have risen, although its profits are strictly regulated.

The difference between power and oil prices is that the reason for the former is known to the public and of the latter is unknown. Through its legislature the public has complete and convenient machinery of investigation and in this particular case the legislature has a peculiar duty. The legislature established price control over oil and then repealed it. Clearly, when prices rise and the public is dissatisfied, the legislature should find out how its present policy is operating.

A committee of the legislature, in a period of a few weeks, could get all the facts, study the oil companies' figures, call witnesses and reach definite conclusions. The forthcoming session of the legislature may be too brief for this work but at the full session early next year it could not be more usefully employed than in a full factual inquiry.

The head of a leading oil company recently told this newspaper that he would welcome such a study. All the oil companies should welcome it and so would the public. If the provincial government is not prepared to propose it the opposition parties should do so. We doubt that the legislature would reject that motion and we hope it will be pressed to a vote at the earliest opportunity.

Instead of the consumer's complaints and the oil companies' reassuring replies, let us have the facts.

If There Is a Surplus

FOR THE MOMENT THE BUDget of the Canadian government is again in the black. In June the government collected $15 millions less than it spent. In July it showed a surplus of $45 millions. For the first four months of the fiscal year total revenues were $1.4 billions and expenditures $1.2 billions. But these figures do not necessarily mean that there will be a surplus of that order by the end of the year. The autumn and winter months usually show a decline in revenue and an increase in expenditure.

However, instead of the over-all deficit which Mr. Abbott fears, the government may accumulate another surplus, though it is not likely to be substantial. If so, the government will have three options. It can spend the surplus. It can reduce taxes. Or it can reduce debt.

The first option should be rejected out of hand. The nation cannot afford any increased expenditures, unless they prove necessary for defense against the new threat posed by Russia's possession of the hydrogen bomb.

The second option of tax reduction is attractive but it cannot be justified unless the surplus is large, which seems highly improbable. If it is small it could not provide any significant tax cut in any case.

The wise course for the government will be to use any small surplus to reduce the huge and burdensome national debt. This the government has been steadily doing since the war, to the gratifying amount of some two billion dollars, with consequent savings to the taxpayers in interest charges.

If this policy of debt reduction should have been the government's largest political asset, the opposition converted it into a political liability by calling it "over-taxation." Having safely survived the opposition's attack on that score the government is in a position to maintain its policy. So long as the debt remains at its present gigantic figure — a deadweight mortgage on all Canadian homes—every possible effort should be made to reduce it, and the easy temptation of increased spending and premature tax reduction should be avoided.

The Department Gains

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S DEPARTment of Education has acquired an official of unusual abilities through the appointment of J. F. K. English to the post of assistant deputy minister.

The broad grasp of detailed educational matters, not only in this community but elsewhere in the province, and the administrative efficiency of the new appointee is generally recognized. During eight years as municipal inspector in Victoria he has handled a vast and complex problem, meeting the needs of a student population increasing as probably never before in the district's history.

Beyond his own personal abilities, he has shown a facility for working with others that has relieved the gigantic task of school building and re-organization of many frictions that could have been highly detrimental. His has been the course of unruffled competence, inspiring confidence in his colleagues and easing the burdens on the school board.

Beyond his duties as municipal inspector, Mr. English has made widespread contributions to community growth in this district. A leading figure in musical festival, symphony, library and other agencies he has given his time and energies unstintingly to the welfare of the city he has made his home.

Educationists and the public will extend to him their wishes for continuing success in his new post, regretting only that it will remove him from more direct association with the Greater Victoria School Board. In passing they will note the high regard in which Greater Victoria personnel is held by the department. It has chosen the present municipal inspector to follow H. L. Campbell, former municipal inspector, as the two advance higher up the administrative ladder.

Speaking for Tourists

CECIL H. A. DUKE, MANAGER of the Touring Bureau of the California State Automobile Association, has offered comment on the American tourist which should draw wide attention in Victoria and other centres on Vancouver Island.

"Last year they (the American tourists) just wanted to know where to go and what to see," Mr. Duke reports. "This year they question the prices of everything, especially hotels and auto courts. More and more people are asking about camping facilities. It's not that they're hard up. Employment is still as high as ever. They are just getting a little more careful with the dollar, that's all."

In other words, if anyone ever considered the American tourist a tree ripe for the picking that opinion must be revised. The visitor from across the line wants value for his money and he should, and generally does, receive it here.

But the fact that increasing numbers of U.S. tourists are also inquiring about camping facilities is important. Few travelers can pass from one country into another without spending money. The longer a person stays in an alien land, the more he can be expected to spend. Presumably the accessibility and facilities of camp sites will be a factor in keeping our guests with us for a longer period. That, bluntly, should be good business. And Vancouver Island, thanks largely to the development of the B.C. Forest Service's parks division, has a vastly improved selection of campsites over those in operation a few years ago.

At least some of the emphasis on publicity henceforth should unquestionably be placed on this asset—an attraction of high value not only to the American tourist but to the natives who want weekend trips on the Island.

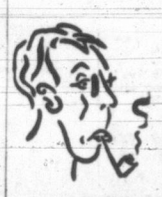
The tourist lure and citizens' own recreational enjoyment appear to be reaching common ground. Nothing could be more healthy than an appreciation here that our guests come to share the good things that are ours, and not something artificially concocted as bait for the tourist dollar.

Worrying the Washington Fashion Experts, Too

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

NOW that Labor Day is gone, and the summer is over, let us bore each other into buckling down to work. This is most readily done by driving each other frantic with tedious accounts of our piffling travels and stupid adventures . . . the sort of tales the ants must tell each other when they have gone up a few blades of grass and down the other side.



Brock

We didn't travel much this summer. (This sounds fascinating to me, if not to you.) But the family did persuade me into agreeing (if not believing) that hot highways and big crowds and nerve-wracking driving have some peculiar advantage over our own cool garden and quiet beach. A change is as good as a rest, travel is so broadening, one should try to avoid being a stick-in-the-mud, and money is here to be spent. And there are wonderful bargains in Bellingham and Seattle. Even dust has its points, they implied. I offered to create dust at home, but they said this wasn't the same thing. And besides, as George Formby sings in some rather indelicate lyrics, it's champion camping out. Camping on your own lawn is too easy.

SO we did camp out, in two or three parts of northwestern Washington. No doubt you know finer spots in B.C. . . . so do I, except for Washington's amazing yet accessible volcanoes, such as Baker and Rainier, but this was my first appearance on American soil since 1937, and it was time I went down to see the changes. Anyhow, it isn't very dignified to ask American tourists to come here every year in the interests of our tourist industry without my going down there every 16 years in the interests of theirs.

CAMPING out is not always so champion as Formby pretends to think. Nor is a married man with four children either so gregarious or so happy-go-lucky as the man in the song. But I was impressed by some of the state camping grounds. I was filled with horror by my sight of the first one, at the entrance to Deception Pass, north of Whidby Island. It seemed so very full of people. But most of the people didn't stay all night, and it was possible to get quite well off by myself, among the abundant trees. And the cleanliness and cooking arrangements and so on were first rate . . . at 75c a night.

Maybe travel is broadening, at that, if you have your father along to explain matters. And speaking of manners, not one American laughed at me for traveling in shorts, and only two or three stared. I wish I could say that of Canadians! To Canadians, old Crosscountry Brock in shorts is a laughable mixture of Jungle Jim, a Somerset Maugham beachcomber, and the Short Range Desert Group.

TALKING of camping out, it was interesting to see how many Americans and Canadians have turned from motels to camps. It must be very interesting for motel-owners to watch this trend too, after having been lords of informality at formal prices . . . the rent of lath at the price of brick. I feel sorry for chaps who retired this year and bought a motel on the strength of its last year's earnings. But I feel much sorrier for chaps who buy motels five years from now on the strength of earnings that obviously made the fortune of the vendor-before-last back in the late 40's. Books open to inspection. Buy now, while in the doldrums! A buyer's market!

Security for life at only $75,000 for a group of sheds on the mossy brink of a ditch filled with ashes and tin cans, known in the guide book as a trout stream. Owner retiring because of ill health contracted from sewage system.

THE main scenic feature of Washington, as in B.C., consists of logging trucks. A gorgeous panorama of them everywhere you look. But in Washington they go faster, rounding the corners with dash, elan and verve. Also with sway. And they don't mar the pretty logs with great big ugly chains, either . . . they just give them a dainty frail necklace, so to speak, and if the logs want to wander off into the pastures, well, who wouldn't?

A mile or two west of Maple Falls, on the road to Mount Baker, we saw as pretty an arrangement of logs as Nature ever designed. They were sprawled all over hell's half-acre, lying there as if drawn by Cezanne himself, the master of the difficult form called the cylinder. (He also attempted cones and spheres, the rascal. This was a dodge he learnt at art school. It seems that nobody else learnt it, so that today his sketch books would be worth several million dollars, with no royalty to the poor hacks who taught him.)

WELL, these logs on the highway had just finshed rolling through a car. They didn't kill the occupants. The police couldn't tell why. Maybe they were cheap logs . . . hemlock or something. But they made a great job of the car itself. All that was left of the car was a few shreds and crumbs Which is exactly the way I picture my car each time I pass a logging truck. And we passed a hundred of them in a few hours, on our way to Baker, and each of them used the King's highway (I mean the President's highway) as if the logging companies had built that road and turned it into a private railroad. Same as in B.C. Made me homesick. Or plain sick.

As Our Readers See It

CITY MANAGER'S PAY

Not so many months ago the mayor was not on speaking terms with the city manager. Now he is boosting him for $12,000 per annum. My favorite wife suggests Claude is boosting Cecil so that when and if he gets the $12,000, Cecil will boost Claude's salary. These women have a lot of insight!

A few days ago I read that Works Manager Warren had to fire 20 workmen because of shortage of funds. $2,000 would keep 20 men partly employed one month and the city would get value for the dollars paid. If the city manager's wages go up, every other employee will ask for an increase—firemen, policemen, every union will jump the city for more wages. So the idea is not sensible, to say the least.

In Edmonton the city clerk worked 25 years and his final salary was $3,400. Edmonton is three times the size of Victoria City. The job is worth at outside valuation $6,500 per annum. If Wyatt quits, there are many other capable men who would jump at the job.

Claude promised economy. All he has done is create noise and disturbance.

BOW BELLS

Mrs. Hodges recently wrote of a decline in Cockneys, of no Cockneys being born since Bow Bells Church was destroyed in the war, and that the idea jolted her.

That Bow Bells Church was responsible for Cockney sense of humor was probably invented, like hundreds of legends, for the purpose of gradually blackening out authentic history.

Bow Bells Church was unique in that people who crowded it had courage to pray for a Protestant wind (east) that would enable William of Orange to reach England with his seven hundred ships.

They prayed thus while King James was still on the English throne.

At this time restless and anxious crowds jammed Cheapside to watch the weather-cock on Bow Bells' graceful spire, cussing the persistent Popish wind (west) that had wafted the Irish Popish army over to England, praying for a Protestant wind that could save them, as it had a hundred years before (1688-1588 Spanish Armada) from unspeakable horrors.

To avoid religious troubles in the future, it might be well for religious enthusiasts to recall our ancestors' troubles of the past.

A FEW WORDS

Those who have the welfare of animals at heart have long been trying to find a practical way to teach the young kindness and consideration for all animals and birds, especially the household pet. If on Friday just before closing, all schools would set apart say, 10 minutes for the teachers to say a few words to their classes on this subject—not about wild animals the children are not likely to encounter unless in a zoo, or worse stil, a circus—but about care for the family cat or the household dog which are often taken so much for granted that their small wants go unnoticed.

Remind the children to be sure that there is fresh water in a clean dish, that no sour, spoiled food is left standing about either for cat or dog. That shelter from heat, rain or cold is accessible.

Urge them to take the dog for exercise, no dog can be healthy without. See that burrs and spear grass are not causing trouble in ears, paws, or other parts of the body of dog or cat. Even chickens could have a happier healthier life with a little care and attention.

Surely this homely, informal talk need not come under the red tape of "Curriculum." It is not much to ask that a few minutes be spared weekly for so worthwhile a thing and so sadly needed. If children from early days were taught kindness, there would be fewer painful and lingering deaths from BB guns and slingshots among our birds and small creatutres.

THAT TWO PER CENT

I was most pleased to see the article by your reporter on the matter of discounting U.S. dollars. His remarks would certainly indicate there are still a few narrow-minded small-town operators in our fair city and that the majority of us will suffer from their unfair treatment of our much desired tourists from south of the border.

We may feel that some of our southern cousins are a bit unreasonable too in objecting to their dollars being discounted when we have had the experience of having our own dollars refused by even the banks of some of the southern states. However, we all know or should know the necessity of purchasing U.S. dollars from our Canadian banks before traveling south.

While making a purchase in a local store recently, I enquired from the proprietor how his U.S. tourist trade was this year and he replied, "Not so good as last year; these Americans can't seem to take the discount on their money." That probably explains his U.S. tourist business falling off.

A local theatre charged a friend of mine from Portland one cent discount on a fifty cent piece recently. For the sake of 2% loss some of our people would jeopardize one of our major industries. Let us grow up and instead of trying to take the tourist for all we can, extend the hand of fellowship to our visitors from the south and make them feel glad that they have visited with us. It will bring more U.S. dollars to us next year and the years to follow.

ACCLAIM

When we spend a summer in and around Victoria we think of flowers, abundance of fruits and vegetables, music under the stars. But how many of us think of the humane work that is being accomplished in your beautiful city.

I visited your SPCA the other day and I speak as a captain of the Hume Society in Toronto for many years, and a co-convener for Winnipeg.

Your SPCA headquarters is a credit to any capital. Judging fom the able management I encountered you have to be congratulated on your choice in efficiency.

CONGRATULATIONS
Ladysmith Chronicle (Sept. 4)

With this issue The Ladysmith Chronicle passes another milestone in its long career in the service of the people of this city and district. On Monday ownership of the publishing business operated by the Hindmarch Brothers for the past 11½ years passed to a new company, Island Publishers Limited.

It is the intention of the new management to continue the development of The Chronicle as a truly local paper, devoted to the interests of Ladysmith and the surrounding area and viewing all questions in the light of the best interests of that area.

WHAT THEY CAN GIVE
Cowichan Leader

It is important in every locality that students be guided on taking a practical approach to life, and that they must be taught that they are going out into the world, not for what they can gain from it, but for what they can give to it. They should be shown the way to a more abundant life, and not to believe that life itself counts in dollars and cents. All, it should be remembered, go out into the world with a Christian equality.

HERE TOO
Nanaimo Free Press

In order to give intelligent and effective direction to the development of any community, it is necessary first to have a plan, not necessarily a plan worked out to the last detail, but at least some program of a broad and general nature which can be used as a guide for future policy.

Lack of foresight in matters related to community planning often results in waste of time, money and effort, which otherwise would not have been wasted if intelligent and consistent effort had been made to foresee future eventualities.

When properly organized, and enjoying the confidence and support of civic government, town planning can make valuable contributions to the welfare of a community. By its means, application may be made of specialized knowledge to problems which cannot, in fairness, be left to the sole responsibility of a city council.

STAGNATION
Twin Cities Times

The Trades and Labor Congress has joined the chant for the guaranteed annual wage for labor.

On the surface, nothing could look more logical and reasonable. Labor is not alone in disliking the "down" part of the ups and downs of business. Farmers have tried to get stability by pressuring governments into floor prices and carved up territories.

But let no one be fooled.

The guaranteed annual wage is just another tasteless soup bone tossed into the collective bargaining pot. And it doesn't change the flavor one bit. That flavor is that labor wants more and more. And in free enterprise economy it has a perfect right to bargain peacefully and within the law, to try to get more and more. But labor and the whole Canadian economy would blink and go to sleep if the guaranteed annual wage ever really took over.

A guaranteed annual wage is possible only if there are guaranteed annual sales. And guaranteed annual sales are possible only if all of us froze our tastes exactly as they are, and kept right on buying the same amount of corn flakes, the same number of shoelaces and motor cars and post offices and St. Lawrence Seaways and radishes every year.

Stability . . . stability . . . there's lots of it in any stagnant pool.

BELONGS TO THE PEOPLE
Campbell River Courier

Buttle Lake, the central feature of Strathcona Park on Vancouver Island, is being handed over to the B.C. Power Commission by the provincial government to be used as a power reservoir. A great dam is being planned which will raise the level of the lake. Before the lake is raised, the timber on the shores, up to the new level must be cut, and the impression prevails that this timber, as well as the lake is to go to the Power Commission.

To this idea, Mr. Roderick Haig-Brown, the well-known writer and conversationist, takes serious exception. The timber, much of it Douglas fir of the highest grade, is valuable. At the going price for sawlogs, it is estimated it will fetch $4,000,000.

But Mr Haig-Brown suggests that, standing, and part of the recreational assets of the province, it is worth much more than that. It is his contention that, if it must be cut, the proceeds of the sale should go to the provincial parks division, not to the Power Commission.

The argument is one to which there is really no answer. The park belongs to the people of B.C. and the timber belongs to the park. In part, it was expressly withdrawn from logging so that it might be used for recreational purposes. Part of it was purchased and part secured by exchange of other Crown timber—all for the same purpose.

The gift of the lake to the Power Commission did not include a gift of the timber. That is still a recreational asset and if it cannot in itself be used for recreational purposes the proceeds from its sale certainly can and certainly should.

BYRON'S LETTERS

It is obvious that letter writing often gave Byron the opportunity to be outrageous and gay in a degree that no civilized society allows. A letter is in fact the only device for combining solitude and good company. And for some obscure reason, letters are also the proper medium for extravaganza. Byron, whom we know to have been remarkably adaptable to his surroundings, ready to take the tone of those about him, would be most himself tete-a-tete with his note paper.

—From Jacques Barzun's introduction to "The Selected Letters of Lord Byron."

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Let's Have More Ivy

ANOTHER Victoria building has been stripped of the ivy or other creeper which formerly clothed its high brick walls. The face of the structure stands out now as naked as a protesting Doukhobor and, to my eyes, doesn't look much more attractive.

Stott

Undoubtedly there were excellent reasons for removing the creeper. I've heard that ivy and other growth destroys masonry, working its clinging threads into the mortar, robbing it of strength and jeopardizing the whole building.

That may be correct. But ivy and other creepers do a wonderful job in covering up what often doesn't appeal to the eye. Craigdarroch Castle has never been quite the same since its academic gown of ivy was torn off in the days when the building housed Victoria College. It, like other edifices, lost a certain patina of tradition, an association with the classical concept of scholasticism, when the climbing covering was removed.

HUMANISTIC

I guess people with anachronistic noodles like mine haven't much place in the ranks of critics on such matters. But it was comforting to think of the college as something other than a brain factory, as something a little more human and breathing than a lot of lecture rooms with stone walls around them and a slate roof over the top. Ivy gave that humanist impression.

The effect may have been spurious. A wall growth doesn't carry a building back through the centuries if the building has been erected in the last 50 or 75 years. Just the same there's a linking with the past, however tenuous, in the appearance a luxuriant climber gives to a structure.

And you'll pardon me if I suggest ivy might do a lot for a certain type of modern architecture. As an old mossback, I can't quite appreciate some of the acute angles, slopes, whirls and severity of line that appears to enjoy popularity on some drawing boards. In time, I may grow accustomed to it—or my children's children may. In the meantime, it would be a kindness to these tired old eyes if more ivy were planted and Nature softened down the harshness of the more functional or more eccentric departures of modern building.

It's ignorance on my part, I'll admit. But when I see some of the modern designs I keep thinking of an English critic's remarks about some present-day painting. The critic conceded the artist's right to express himself as he wished. He thought, though, that if the artist had to do such things, it would be less indelicate to do them in private.

With a building, the creator hasn't that opportunity. It's there, on public view. It can't be sheltered in a basement or an attic or housed in the drawing room of some eccentric.

TONED DOWN

Still, with the judicious use of ivy, its more startling features can frequently be disguised. The hardness can be toned down.

Then when people as medieval as I pass by, they're not hit in the face by something that's optically painful. The blow is cushioned with the greenery.

Not that all buildings should be shrouded. Some look appealing enough in their lines. But when they're skinny and angle-jointed, it seems a kindness to wrap them in garments that hide their malformations. That's the human thing to do.

Let's have more ivy and a lot less of this cutting away of foliage where foliage is mercifully concealing.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

An Answer Must Be Made

WHAT is the Eisenhower administration going to do about the air defense problem?

The country still seems largely unaware that the problem even exists. Yet this question is the subject of increasingly anguished debate within the highest administration circles. One informed guess is that the administration will move less than halfway toward the kind of air defense effort proposed by the Eisenhower appointed Bull committee and a host of previous committees.

Joseph

Instead of upping current air defense outlays by $3 to $4 billion a year, air defense may get an additional $1 or $2 billion. With the Soviet air-atomic threat growing all the time, this seems rather like throwing a rope halfway to a drowning man. Yet in view of the painful fiscal and political dilemmas posed by the air defense problem, a halfway compromise on the issue seems like a reasonable guess.

The fiscal dilemma is obvious. In round figures, the treasury stands to lose some $9 billion from prospective tax reductions. The deficit for the current fiscal year is estimated at more than $3 billion. This means either new taxes, a heavily unbalanced budget, or huge reductions in spending, above all for defense.

Short of new taxes, the budget which President Eisenhower must present to Congress next January cannot even approach a balance unless the defense budget is reduced well below $30 billion. A defense budget under $30 billion cannot conceivably include the kind of air defense appropriations which the Bull committee and its half-dozen predecessors have proposed as the minimum essential for the national security.

The political dilemma derives, of course, from this fiscal dilemma. A heavily unbalanced budget will be attacked effectively by the Democratic opposition, with many a quotation from campaign-time Republican promises. Any attempt to raise new taxes will be attacked even more effectively.

Yet a failure to deal at all with the air defense problem, which has been dramatically highlighted by the Soviet hydrogen bomb, will also be grist to the opposition mill. And next year is an election year.

This enormously painful dilemma, moreover, must be resolved very soon, since the budget must be prepared well in advance of the President's January budget message. First among those who will influence the final decision are the new joint chiefs of staff.

There is good reason to believe that Air Force Chief of Staff Nathan Twining favors the Bull proposals, and some reason to believe that Army Chief of Staff Matthew Ridgway does not. The most important voice will be that of the very able new chairman, Admiral Arthur Radford. Radford is deeply concerned by the air defense problem, and quite aware that the U.S. now has no real air defense at all.

But the new chiefs have only a few weeks to complete their sweeping new look at American defense planning. In this short time, the chiefs seem unlikely to iron out a flat and final position on air defense. Some sort of compromise, such as their predecessors repeatedly made, seems much more probable.

Defense Secretary Wilson is deeply and publicly committed to the joint chiefs' new look. For this reason, and because he greatly admires Radford, he is likely to go along with any joint chiefs' position on the issue. At least he is much less likely to be the advocate of economy at any price he might have been six months ago.

Junior Star Grows Up

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—An air of suspense hangs over the household of 14-year-old singer Jimmy Boyd. His voice is changing.

Jimmy's mother anxiously revealed today that nature is rolling onward: "Jimmy now sings 'I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus' in A instead of B flat."

ALINE

But the junior crooner said he doesn't mind that he may wind up a retired has-been at 15.

"Yes, my voice has dropped lower. If it winds up for the good, I'll go on singin'. If it winds up bad, I'll start talking," he philosophized crisply.

"I'll act. I want to be a western star."

Jimmy sat reading a book about motorcycles in the living-room of the new ranch-style house he bought his parents in suburban Sepulveda.

"At Columbia Records they noticed the difference in my voice from a year ago," he said between chapters.

"It's getting deeper. It hasn't cracked yet, though. I hope it'll change gradually.

"I still have four baby teeth," he added hopefully.

As insurance for the day when Jimmy will have to abdicate as a child singer, Columbia Records has a hefty backlog of his tunes to release. Meantime, fresh newcomers recently from the cradle are cashing in on the child singer fad.

"There's Molly Bee and Baby Pam—there'll all good," drawled Jimmy.

Young Boyd started up the ladder at 12 after he won a local talent contest that brought him television jobs. He graduated to Frank Sintara's TV show, to movies, records and personal appearances.

Now he likes girls, too. His fan mail pours in from love-struck sub-debs. Jimmy giggled that he dates females "to parties and shows and things."

Later the red-haired boy in jeans and a Hawaiian print shirt dashed outside to try out his new motorcycle. He roared round and round the house. His mother watched each time he hove into view through the picture window.

"He's grown four inches in the last two years," she said. "His brother's voice didn't change until he was 15, so maybe Jimmy's will hold out."

The larger sum represented the difference between the face value of debentures and the actual sale price.

City officials claimed that under their by-laws the smaller sum was the maximum the city could pay.

DUNCAN—Plans have been prepared to fix the southern boundary of the city in the centre of Cowichan River east of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Changes in the course of the river since 1912 led to the loss of the old boundary and a "no man's land" between the old and new river beds.

Alberta Schools Open Monday After Delay Caused by Polio

EDMONTON, Alta. (BUP)—Deputy Health Minister Dr. A. A. Summerville announced today that Alberta schools will reopen on Monday because the province is "over the hump" of a polio epidemic.

He said there would be no extension of the two-week delay ordered at the end of August. Schools would have reopened Sept. 1, but for the polio epidemic.

"Latest figures indicate the epidemic is slowing down," Dr. Sommerville said.

His announcement came as the provincial health department reported 31 additional cases and one fatality, pushing the polio total to 504 cases, including 28 deaths in the province this year.

CHESS DEFENSE REVIVED

WINNIPEG (CP)—Abe Yanofsky of Winnipeg, a favorite to take the Canadian chess championship this week and recent winner of the British championship, is reviving an old system.

Yanofsky has several times employed the Magnus Smith variation of the Sicilian defense, a system popular around the turn of the century.

Smith was a Winnipeg shoemaker and held the Canadian championship around 1900. He was an outstanding player and came to the attention of Dr. Emmanuel Lasker, one of the world's greatest players and world champion for 28 years.

Income Tax Act Section Draws Accountants' Fire

Dominion-wide uniformity in company legislation, revision of Section 1104 of the Income Tax Act, and greater emphasis upon recruitment to the profession of public accountancy were the goals set by Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants' convention which concluded at Empress Hotel Thursday evening.

Section 1104 sets the ground rules for the depreciation allowance deductions in a company's income tax statement. Among other things, it currently permits a firm to reduce its taxable income by taking depreciation progressively during the constructing or equipping of a plant. The firm can, as it were, write off some of its capital as the outlay is being made. In the long-term this procedure makes no difference to the federal government's income tax revenues. But it does pose some tricky problems for accountants.

The CA's object to Section 1104 solely because it violates their conception of proper accounting and recording procedures. They do not deny the right of the federal government to cell the tune on depreciation allowances or to use these as an instrument in the nation's fiscal policy. But they claim they are being prevented from producing a clear-cut, straightforward financial statement solely because of the effects of Section 1104. They say they find it necessary, because of Section 1104, to sprinkle footnotes copiously throughout the balance sheet, and that these footnotes are vital in analizing the figures in the official statement.

Attempt of CAs to obtain uniform company legislation across the country also stems from their deep desire that statements and prospectuses bearing their signature be uncomplicated and accurate. For some years CICA has been pressing for uniform legislation governing companies. They now are hopeful the dominion and provincial governments are favorable toward rewriting existing legislations on the pattern of Ontario's new act.

STOCK EXCHANGE SUMMARIES:

Oils Down Two, Rest Recover

TORONTO (CP) — Western oils continued to decline but other groups recovered slightly from early lows toward the stock market's close today.

The oils dropped more than two points on the exchange's index to reach their lowest point since January, 1950. Golds and base metals recovered slightly from lows set early in the session but continued about one index point below Thursday's close. Industrials dropped a similar amount.

27 AT NEW LOWS

Western oils retreated on a wide front, led by Canadian Prospects, Canada Southern and Pacific with losses ranging to $1. The few gains ranged to five cents. Twenty-seven wester oils reached new lows for the year.

Uraniums traded actively in a few issues for general small losses. New Brunswick base metals also slipped.

Base metals weakened and Labrador struck a new low in seniors. Anacon, Tungsten and Weedon led low-priced issues downward.

Steels, foods, utilities and refining oils were hardest hit in industrials.

All groups in golds showed a majority of losses but trading was light.

YEAR'S LOW HIT AT N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—A third-hour selling wave hit the stock market hard today and sent it down to a low for the year.

Losses were extensive and went to between one and three points in many cases. Some issues at times dipped as much as five points.

Railroads were especially hard hit together with motors, steels and most other major divisions. Relative steadiness was seen in radio-televisions and building materials.

Canadian issues were lower. McIntyre fell one point, Canadian Pacific and Distillers-Seagram both lost ½ and Dome Mines was off ⅛. International Nickel and Hiram Walker both dropped ¼.

Canadian issues were mostly lower on the American stock exchange. Lake Shore fell ⅛ and Giant Yellowknife slipped ¼. Royalite Oil added ⅛.

Montreal Lawer

MONTREAL (CP) — Senior metals led the stock market to lower ground during afternoon dealing today. The pace of business was slow.

Steels, senior oils, papers, utilities, carriers, beverages and miscellaneous industrials followed the falling metal issues. Banks held steady.

Canadian Cottons fell two points to a new low of 28 and International Petroleum dipped one to 20. Other losses were fractional.

A broad list of mines moved off in light trading. Anacon, Western Tungsten, Boreal, Violamac, Steep Rock, Dominion Asbestos and New Larder were included in the losses.

Federated Petroleum, off 60 cents at $3.95, held the spotlight in a weaker western oil section. Del Rio and Pontiac also back-tracked.

Oils Down Sharply

Oils dropped sharply on Vancouver stock exchange this forenoon, mirroring Toronto's weakness.

London Lifeless

LONDON (Reuters) — Gilt-edged and foreign bonds were the only sections to show signs of life as trading tailed off in today's stock markets.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices closed somewhat irregularly after moving in a narrow range today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. October contracts of all grains showed the best tone.

There was little feature to the trade as export demand was negligible. Oats and barley dealings were mostly of domestic character, with eastern shippers making purchases for feed requirements.

Rye attracted some American buying. Routine processor and seaboard demand came out in flax.

No information was available on overnight export wheat loadings.

Prices for Class 2 and 3WA wheat, top grades, were unchanged.

2,000 Homeless After Cyprus Earthquake

PAPHOS, Cyprus (Reuters)—Six thousand earthquake-dazed inhabitants of Paphos, legendary birthplace of the goddess Venus, huddled outside their shattered homes Thursday as rescue workers dug by torchlight in the massive ruins for further victims.

Forty bodies have been recovered and 165 persons reported injured since the quakes convulsed this Mediterranean island at dawn. Many of the seriously injured victims are not expected to live. At least 2,000 are homeless.

Nine earth shudders flattened or opened wide cracks in homes in 135 villages throughout western Cyprus. They came just one month after the quake disaster on Greece's Ionian Islands 700 miles to the west.

The Paphos population clustered in gardens, parks and on the roads. Their ranks were swollen with tattered refugees from other western towns.

Most sat in their pajamas or nightgowns and sobbed pitiful stories of the deaths of their loved ones, including many children. Every house in the town of Paphos was either a broken shell or severely damaged.

As refugees poured into town, whimpering women and pale-faced men who had seen the terror were making hasty arrangements to leave.

FRANK SMITH TOO POPULAR, BECOMES JOHN

SPOKANE (AP) — Frank M. Smith went to court on Thursday, told the judge there are just too many Frank Smiths in Spokane and said he wanted to change his name.

The court approved his petition to change his name to John R. Smith. It appears he broke even. The telephone book shows eight Johns and eight Franks here. Smith said his new middle initial—R. for Robert—makes thedifference.

New Effort Tuesday To End Times' Strike

SEATTLE (AP)—Representatives of the Seattle Times and striking CIO American Newspaper Guild have agreed to meet again Tuesday in efforts to end the 57-day-old wage dispute which has closed the paper, the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service announced on Thursday.

LONE DEMOCRAT in President Eisenhower's cabinet, Martin P. Durkin, international president of the AFL Plumbers' Union, resigned Thursday as U.S. secretary of labor. Durkin has been reported dissatisfied with the administration's failure to press for revision of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act. Durkin, 58, will return to his post as head of the plumbers' union.

KLAGENFURT, Austria (CP) Stamp-collector Ferdinand Malle claimed here Tuesday that he had found the world's oldest used postage stamp. Printed in two colors, the stamp bears a Klagenfurt postmark dated June 26, 1838. It was discovered recently in the attic of a house at nearby Obervellach.

Young Sooke Man Pays $150 Fine For Attacking Girl on Dark Road

A fine of $150 was imposed against Robert Edward Coates, 22, of East Sooke, when he pleaded guilty in RCMP court at Colwood Thursday to charge of assaulting and injuring a young woman.

Two justices of the peace presiding, Robert Owen, ex-inspector of the B.C. police, and S. J. Grant, ordered a five-month jail term for accused if the fine was not paid. The fine was paid.

RCMP of the Colwood detachment told the court that Coates assaulted a 21-year-old resident of Florence Lake Road around midnight Tuesday.

Police said the young woman, a BCE employee, was walking along Florence Lake Road, coming home from town, when she was approached by a man in a car on the unlighted road and asked to get into the car.

She refused. The man then got out of the car, grabbed her and tried to force her into the vehicle. Mounties said the woman's terrified screams were heard by neighbors. Four telephone calls reporting the screams reached RCMP at Belmont Park.

The man got into his car and drove off, police told the justices.

Victim of the assault was reported to have suffered bruises to the face and other parts of the body in the scuffle.

Character witnesses spoke well of Coates. His counsel was J. Ronald Grant.

BUMS TAKE ORDERS FOR WORLD SERIES TICKETS

BROOKLYN (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers announced Thursday they will accept mail orders immediately for reserved seats to the three World Series games to be played at Ebbets Field Oct. 2-3-4. No orders post-marked later than Sept. 15 will be accepted.

Tickets will be sold only in strips of three with each customer limited to two strips. The price is $21 per strip, plus $1 to cover mailing costs. Only certified cheques or money orders will be honored.

All orders must be addressed to the Dodgers' business office at 215 Montague Street, Brooklyn. Those addressed to individuals in the organization will be tossed into the waste basket, the Dodgers say.

WHAMS TWO MORE

Terrible Ted Still Terrible

NEW YORK (UP)—Lou Boudreau says Boston would have won the pennant with Ted Williams around all year but even without playing a full term the hero from Korea has exerted a big influence on the current race.

The slender slugger kicked Cleveland's corpse closer to the coffin Thursday when he slammed two more homers to pace the Red Sox to a 14-4 victory as the Yankees blanked Chicago 1-0 and went 10 full games in front.

The Yankees now can clinch the flag through any combination of seven victories or Cleveland defeats.

NOT CHAMPS YET

At the same time, Brooklyn missed a chance to clinch at least a pennant tie by blowing an 11-inning 6-5 decision at Cincinnati. In the only other major league game, the Cardinals edged the Giants 7-6 with a three-run eighth inning rally in which Enos Slaughter hit a homer and two other tallies came over on errors as Rookie Al Worthington suffered his eighth straight loss.

Williams boosted his total to 11 homers since returning from the battle front as Boston pounded out 17 hits. Williams and winning pitcher Mickey McDermott each batted in four runs, while Tom Umphlett drove in three with four singles.

Ed Lopat gained his 15th victory against only three defeats, blanking Chicago with just four hits, three of them by Al Carrasquel. Gene Woodling's homer gave Lopat all the margin he needed in the second inning as the crafty Lefty lowered his earned run average to 2.50, lowest in the American League.

Despite the triumph, the sixth in the last seven games for the pennant bound Yankees, Stengel professed to be worried.

CASEY WORRIED!

"We could get careless and blow it," he said without a sign of tongue in cheek. "Remember what happened to the Giants in 1934 when they blew up in the last week. I know, because we beat 'em twice when I was managing the Boston Braves. Don't go talkin' about any pennant to me. Come around and see me in the fall when this thing is all settled."

Brooklyn battled uphill to erase a 5-2 deficit, then lost in the 11th when Cincy scored with none out as Andy Seminick walked with the bases loaded off usually brilliant Clem Labine.

A historic two-run homer by Wayne Belardi cut the Cincy margin to 5-4 in the eighth. That blast broke the all-time National League mark set in 1950, for it was the 1,101st hit in the circuit this year, most in history. Moreover, it was the 195th Brooklyn homer, breaking a Dodger Club record of 194 set the same season of 1950.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

Boxla Fans Stay Loyal; Pick Rocks Over Petes

By RON COULTER and IRVING STRICKLAND

Do you think Victoria Shamrocks will win the Mann Cup?

Harold Stubbs, planerman, B.C. Forest Products Ltd., 736 Courtenay Street:

"I think Victoria Shamrocks will win the Mann Cup. I also think that it will be a long and hard-fought series and that it will extend for the full seven games before Shamrocks take the title. It is my opinion that the club's great team spirit and undefeated home floor record will bring the trophy back to Victoria."

Phil LaFortune, service station serviceman, Stratford Road, RR3:

"I agree that Shamrocks will win, but I think they will do it in six games. I think the big factor in favor of the local club is that Trailermen will have to adapt themselves to the Coast climate. People coming from the East are usually taken back by a case of sleepiness for several days after arriving here and I think it will make a tremendous difference in the eastern club's playing. Shamrocks also have veterans like Archie Browning, Whitey Severson and Arnie Ferguson to steady the team, and it is my personal opinion that this will make the difference."

Walter Stipe, truck salesman, Wilson Motors Ltd., 3179 Glasgow:

"It's a hard question to answer but everything favors the Shamrocks. It is my personal opinion however that the team which wins the first game will probably take the series in five games. Breaks will play a big part in deciding the winner, but Shamrocks have the advantage of home floor, and are adapted to the climate, while Peterborough will arrive by plane and move right into the series next day."

Al Morgan, partner in Morgan & Tucker Service Station, corner of Pandora and Quadra:

"Shamrocks will definitely win. The local club has improved tremendously since the beginning of the season, exceptionally so during the semifinals, and are a lighter and speedier club, giving them a good opportunity to out-run and outsmart the heavier Trailermen. I don't think the series will be a runaway and that it will go right down to the final game."

Andy Ovcharick, battery manfacturer, Francis Batteries, 1223 Basil Street (former Shamrock president):

"I agree that Shamrocks will win the Mann Cup. Rocks must be given the edge as their team spirit is tops and it is my opinion that it will take Peterborough at least two games to become familiar with the Memorial Arena floor. If they play a running game and keep on the move they can take the series, but I think it will go to the seventh and final game before they win."

Spokes Go One Up in WIL Playoff Series

SPOKANE (AP) — Spokane capitalized on Salem errors Thursday night to notch a 4-2 decision in the opener of the best-of-seven playoffs for the Western International Baseball League pennant.

Trailing 2-1 as they came up to bat in the sixth, the Indians scored three times on a walk, a triple and two Salem errors and never were headed.

COMMAND HOMERS

Jim Command started the scoring for the Indians with a 375-foot home run in the fourth. Salem's two runs, both unearned, came in the top of the sixth.

Virgil Giovannoni, who won two and lost five for the Indians during the regular season, was credited with the victory. Joe Nicholas, Salem's 23-game winner, was charged with the loss.

Spokane manager Don Osborn handed tonight's starting assignment to Art Worth, former Victoria boy. Dave Dahle or Gene Roenspie will start on the mound for Salem.

Mere Minnow First Catch In Big Tourney

WEDGEPORT, N.S. (CP)—The little tuna that grabbed Pablo Bardin's herring-baited hook Thursday gave Argentina a slim opening day lead in the Tenth International Tuna Tournament here.

The Buenos Aires angler brought the 158-pounder, the day's only catch, to gaff on Soldier's Rip in 16 minutes, giving his country a 558-point lead over nine other teams in this three-day world series of big game angling.

Although Bardin, Argentina's captain, was a bit embarrassed at bringing a baby tuna back from the Rip, where some of the world's biggest have been caught, none frowned upon the catch. A small-docile tuna won a tournament two years ago.

There were no other strikes Thursday.

DETROIT—Kenny Lane, 135, Muskegon, Mich., outpointed Eddie Crawford, 129¼, Akron, O., 6.

Byford, Landess May Join Rocks

McMillan Awaits Permission to Add New Men

Victoria Shamrocks will hold their final pre-Mann Cup series workout at Memorial Arena tonight and before they take to the floor again, their ranks may be bolstered by two of the brightest stars of two mainland teams.

Victoria Shamrocks received definite word today from the Canadian Lacrosse Association that they will be allowed to pick up two players from other Intercity Lacrosse League teams for the Mann Cup playoffs that begin Monday.

Coach Red McMillan was still awaiting word this morning regarding replacements for the Canadian championship series. Intercity Lacrosse League secretary Tommy Gordon, on behalf of the Shamrocks, has wired the Canadian Lacrosse Association in the east to find how many replacements Shamrocks are permitted to pick up for the series.

POSSIBILITIES

And while Shamrock officials remain mum as to their preferences, it is heavily rumored that Jack Byford and Lew Landess have the inside track to see action in the series.

Byford, veteran defenceman with Vancouver Pilseners, recently saw plenty of action in Victoria in the hectic league finals, and, in spite of his unpopularity with Victoria fans, would be a great asset to the Rock defence.

Landess is no stranger to the eastern game, having played with Brampton with Rocks Archie Browning and Whitey Severson prior to coming to the coast to join New Westminster. This year he played with PNE Indians. He is one of the fanciest scorers among league forwards.

The powerful Peterborough club, seeking its third straight Mann Cup, will arrive in Victoria by air Sunday morning. As they play their home games on a hard-packed dirt floor they are anxious to have a workout on the cement floor of Memorial Arena before the series starts. However, they are not totally unfamiliar with indoor cement floors as they played their easter Mann Cup finals in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

McMillan is expected to select his starting line-up tonight after the workout.

Physical status of Larry Booth and Len Scott, both of whom are anxious to return to the line-up after being out with injuries, is still somewhat of a mystery but McMillan will probably decide tonight if the two stars will play in the first game.

Bob Anderson, rangy rearguard, will see action only in the first game of the series as he leaves for the interior next week.

Angling Clan in Membership Boom

Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association directors are happy . . . and they have reason to feel that way because 1953 records show they enjoyed a record membership and finished up with a handsome bank balance.

Secretary George Douglas told a meeting of the angling club Thursday night that "we have a membership of 1,638, senior and junior, and I think we will come out of this year's operations with around $1,500 profit." Membership beat last year's record mark by 166, Douglas reported.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

"Everyone has really pitched in and worked this year and I am really thankful to them," said President Wil Wilson. He had special praise for Andy Anderson and his ladder committee and Wes Fulton and committee for their record-breaking "big take" for the Queen Alexandra Solarium in the Anglers-Times sponsored benefit derby.

Direct receipts from the ladder derby was $3,660.

Meeting heard of a terrific increase in junior membership, now totaling 315.

BETTER BEHAVED

Anderson reported that ladder derby finalists "toed the line" much better than in previous years. "We only had to disqualify one entrant, but about 15 were disqualified last year," he said.

Meeting of present and past ladder derby chairmen, the press and radio will be held before the annual meeting to discuss all aspects of the mammoth event to prepare for the 1954 derby.

Directors decided to invite Charles Guiget, provincial biologist, to a future meeting to air some of their problems and see what help can be secured from the wildlife expert.

A dinner for the executive and others who helped to make this year's operations such a success will be held later in the year, probably late October.

Teddy Davis Dumps Araujo; Seeks Carter

BOSTON (UP)—Journeyman Teddy Davis of Hartford, Conn., adjusted the New England lightweight crown on his head today and confidently said he's "ready for Jimmy Carter."

The 28-year-old boxer, who bears the sobriquet "Redtop," gained his claim to Carter by scoring a unanimous 10-round decision over the world champion's last title opponent, George Araujo of Providence, R.I., at Boston Garden Friday night.

Not long after Davis outslugged and out-boxed his way to the sectional championship, promoter Sam Silverman was telephoning Carter's manager in Florida with renewals of a reported $50,000 offer to meet Davis here in November.

"The kid (Davis) rates the title shot," said Silverman. "It should be a lulu."

Meanwhile, Araujo, who had five-and-a-half pounds on the 130-pound, converted-featherweight Davis, explained:

"I lost it myself. I just could not get going. Yeah, he's a sharp fighter, but Carter will beat him easy."

Veteran Morrison to Meet Tommy Harris

Bob Morrison is expected to meet stiff opposition from young Tom Harris when he attempts to take another step up the ladder toward the Uplands Golf Club championships in the second round of match play at the Uplands club Sunday.

Servants Add Scoring Punch

"We figure to be on top of the league when the season ends."

That's the way manager Bob Bell sums up Civil Service's entry in the Victoria and District Football Association this season.

"Last year we had a fast, hustling club but lacked the scoring punch. This year I think we have obtained the scoring punch and should go all the way," he added.

This year the powerful Servicemen will have reliable Joe Travis, considered the top goalie in the city, back between the posts.

Backs Bill Bamford and Bill Ingram are returning, while Ron Woolcott, who was outstanding for Victoria West last season, is also turning out and should catch a spot on the line.

The club will have a speedy half line with Harold Holroyd, Bob Allen, Don Hendry and Bob Clark back for duty. Holroyd will be away at Penticton for a month when the season opens but is expected to show well upon his return.

Forwards Jack McIntyre, Archie McMillan and Alan Blair are returning, while Bell has three new forwards which he thinks will give the club a potent scoring front line.

Charlie Constable, who saw duty with Esquimalt last season, is out with the club, as is Ian Holroyd and Scotty Stephens.

Constable is big and rugged and a ball-hawk, a quality that was lacking in Servicemen's forward line last season, while Ian Holroyd was the pick of the junior league. Stephens comes from New Westminster, where he played two games with the Coast League Royals last season.

Mel Davidson and Jack Thompson, who are utility players, can see duty on either the half or forward line and give Servicemen good reserve strength.

Bell is hoping to get Red McMillan back to coach the club when lacrosse season ends.

"This year we will have a hustling club which should be 25 per cent stronger than last season's team," Bell said.

"We are hoping for a more evenly balanced league and are rebuilding with a prospective eye toward the Coast League," he added.

It is hoped by many soccer clubs and managers this season to get the Island classified into divisions with the winning team in the lower divisions playing the last place club in the next section. If the lower division club wins they move up next year.

Winner of the first division would play a sudden death game with a Vancouver team for the right to meet the last-place Coast League club. If victorious over the Coast League club, the team would then be admitted into the Coast League next season.

ON THE OUTDOOR FRONT

With ROY THORSEN

Fine sport is in the offing for the local angling and hunting clans this week-end in the saltchuck and on the game trails . . . for the offering on both fronts appears to be the best in many years.

In addition to prolific spring salmon and coho fishing from Sooke traps right up the east coast of the island to beyond Campbell River, things look good for the hunter who will be training his sights on the blue grouse coveys starting early Saturday morning.

Thorsen

Our reports from game department officials and private sportsmen indicate that the offering of blues is splendid in both the Cowichan and Campbell River countries. Salal berry crop is the best in many years.

Our experts say there are a lot of small birds in the coveys, but that the picture looks bright.

Big coveys of California quail seen in and about Victoria and district at this time has raised the hopes of nimrods that the ban on shooting that type of game bird will be lifted next year. A few years back the quail population dwindled to almost nothing, but because of the mildness of last winter they made a fine recovery.

* * *

Alan M. Maclean writes down from Campbell River to report good fishing on the troll in Lower Campbell Lake. Said that Messrs. Bruce, Depree and Hobbs of Victoria got good scores of cutthroat, W. G. and John Ellis of this city taking limits of trout, using N. 66 Willow Leaf. . . . Victoria's Nairne Plaxton and Greg Allen are new up-island resort owners. Narine is at Saratoga Beach, 15 miles north of Courtenay. His place is called "Plaxton's Retreat" and Allan has established next door on Silver Sands, according to George Mann.

* * *

Victoria's J. Conway has landed the biggest tyee ever taken out of Comox waters this year. It went 63½ pounds, Charles Knox of Fort Lodge informs Stan Williams. . . . Pete McGillen, Toronto Telegram outdoors writer, tells us that 434 confiscated rifles and shotguns will go on sale in Ontario this year. . . . We were curious as to what happens to confiscated arms of sportsmen in this province. Contacted island game department chief George Stevenson for answer. He says the Game Commission, located at 567 Burrard, Vancouver, calls for tenders each year for the confiscated arms; said that owners have a chance to get back their firerods if they put in a bid for them.

* * *

Saanich municipality will be a quiet place this year in comparison to previous hunting season periods. Saanich Council has ordered a total ban on shooting of any type of weapon within their boundaries. . . . However, Central and North Saanich are still open for hunters, provided they get farmers' permission first.

* * *

Roger Monteith tells us that Gordy Lamont and Roy Smith had a terrific fight last Sunday off William Head, but won. They reeled in a 93-pound halibut, surface fishing. . . . "I believe that story that a fish only adds a pound a year because I had a piece of that halibut and it was tough chewing," said Wenger. . . . Our reports show that fishing is fair to good off Sooke, off Oak Bay, Saanichton area, Saanich Inlet, Cowichan Bay, Parksville, Qualicum, Comox-Courtenay and Campbell River.

* * *

And some of the catches: Victoria's Chief of Police John Blackstock says, "had wonderful fishing off Qualicum." . . . Jack Harris, "we hooked into three nice coho off Oak Bay this week; son, Arthur, got one, but two others got away." . . . Jack Grey and Rod Smith got some trout in Shawnigan Lake last Friday. They were evening fishing. . . . Last Saturday was opening of short band-tailed pigeon season. Few hunters go for them. Said Game Warden Bob Sinclair: "I covered Saanichton, Sooke and Metchosin and I didn't see a single pigeon or a single hunter."

* * *

Langford-Colwood District Fishing Association will hold its annual derby September 20. See local tackle stores for tickets and rules. . . . Oak Bay Salmon Club winners in this year's competitions are Syd Jenkins in the coho ranks (with a 13-pounder) and Mike Rippingale, tops in the spring salmon ranks (a 44-pounder).

STRONG GAME LACKS ONLY SERVE

Cockiness No Detriment to Mo

Editor's Note: Here's the second of a three-part closeup of Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly, golden-haired teen-age gal of tennis.

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

NEW YORK — If Maureen Connolly occasionally feels like chucking the whole tennis grind, she has justification.

For eight of her 18 years (she'll be 19 on September 17), tennis has been the life and obsession of the world's top-ranking woman tennis player. When she goes home to San Diego, Calif., in the fall, Little Mo doesn't touch a racket until the following spring.

The one exception was last winter when she toured to Australia. Those little flares of temperament you've been hearing about may be due to the fact she's been on the trail for 17 straight months.

Maureen was born and raised in San Diego, the fringe area of tennis' prime hatchery, southern California. Her father died in an automobile accident when she was two years old.

* * *

Little Reenie took ballet and tap dancing lessons and rode horses. When she was 10, a San Diego tennis pro, Wilbur Folsom, liked the way she idly swung a tennis racket on the playground near her home. She was a southpaw then. She's still left-handed all the way, except for swinging a racket. Folsom induced her to change.

After a year of mopping up in kids' tournaments, she was brought to Eleanor (Teach) Tennant, who developed Alice Marble and Pauline Betz, among numerous other stars.

In Little Mo and her big swing, Miss Tennant spotted a natural. By the time she was 14, Maureen was the youngest United States girls' champion. At 15, she was the 10th ranked woman player. At 16, she won the United States women's singles at Forest Hills.

Behind her are two Wimbledon crowns, the French, the Australian and almost every other major championship in the world.

Little Mo's game is simply too strong, and a confidence bordering on cockiness is no detriment. Her repertoire lacks only a top-flight serve, a unique failing for one with such powerful strokes.

To improve her service, Little Mo enlisted the help of Harry Hopman, veteran coach of the Australian Davis Cup team. She's making some progress and at the moment relies on a tricky twist to keep her opponents off balance.

"I guess I just don't have the right swing," shrugs Mo.

"She doesn't use enough wrist work," claims Hopman, "and she starts a little off balance."

Both Hopman and Little Mo agree that her backhand is the strongest aspect of her game—primarily because of its deadly accuracy.

Sugar 'n' Spice 'Tween Leo, Carl

CINCINNATI (AP)—Carl Furillo, slugging Brooklyn outfielder, said Thursday he has no intention of continuing his feud with Leo Durocher, manager of the New York Giants.

He made the statement by telephone to Warren C. Giles, president of the National League. Giles had been trying for 24 hours to locate Furillo in connection with the threat. Giles said he considered it a closed incident.

Durocher and Furillo wrestled each other to the ground in New York last Sunday after the outfielder had been hit by a ball pitched by Ruben Gomez of the Giants. They were separated by other players and the umpires, but in the melee Furillo's left hand was stepped on. He is out of the game for the remainder of the season.

"The next time we come face to face, whether on the street, on the field or anywhere, I'll let him have it," Furillo said in the dressing room afterward.

Marvel Keeps Mask As Jons' Bid Fails

The mysterious identity of The Masked Marvel remained a secret at Memorial Arena Thursday night, but it wasn't because popular grappler Dave Jons didn't have the right holds.

Battling in a return main event bout with the Mask on promoter Ken William's weekly mat card, Jons, who had threatened to unmask the mysterious warrior, took the first fall with a Boston crab and had applied the identical hold in the second when he was flipped from the ring, injuring his right knee.

Jons crawled back through the ropes and the Mask immediately took the opportunity offered and worked on the leg until Jons conceded the fall, to square the match.

The Mask rushed across the ring before the bell for the third fall rang and grabbed the leg again and Jons conceded the match.

In the opener Al Szasz, substituting for Chief Thunderbird, who was reportedly ailing from an infected tooth, was awarded the bout when Ivan Kamaroff was disqualified for choking.

Pepper Gomez and George Drake were awarded a reverse-decision disqualification victory over Angelo Poffo and Don Kindred in the tag-team match.

PRESTON HONORED AS TOP GOALIE IN BOXLA LEAGUE

Last-place New Westminster Salmonacs' sensational goalkeeper, Harry Preston, has been selected by a panel of newspapermen and the Intercity Lacrosse League Commission as the outstanding goalie of the season in the circuit.

The 22-year-old ball-blocker, who has seen duty with Salmonacs for four years, will receive the Leo Nicholson Trophy for his accomplishment.

Fred Fulla of Nanaimo Native Sons was a close second, while Jack Green of Vancouver Pilseners and Stan Joseph of PNE Indians were well back, followed by Shamrocks' Jim Hetherington.

BOSTON—Teddy (Red Top) Davis, 130, Hartford, outpointed George Araujo, 145½, Providence, R.I., 10.

NEWARK, N.J.—Joe Serafini, 157½, Newark, outpointed Birdie Loffs, 158½, Elizabeth, 8.

High School Boy Cops Twin Archery Crowns

Fifteen-year-old Gary Paton is the proud possessor of two British Columbia archery championships.

Paton, a Mount View High School student in his second year of competition, captured the B.C. junior target title and the provincial junior field course championship at Stanley Park range in Vancouver on Labor Day.

He recorded scores of 680 and 594 to down two other competitors and take the target competition, his 680 being the best score he has posted in his short archery career.

SECOND TITLE

In the B.C. junior field course he scored a point total of 214 to add his second crown. In this event contestants fire four arrows at each of the 18 targets which are scattered over the course. There are five rings on the target valued at nine, seven, five, three and one point.

In Paton's first year of competition he won the junior Canadian mail match archery competition. Archers from across Canada send their scores to Toronto in this competition and the Canadian Archery Association releases the winners.

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Legion of Regina became the second of three Canadian teams to drop out of the women's world championship softball tournament here Thursday night when they lost, 4-1, to Toronto Gartens.

Salmonacs Still Rolling

WINNIPEG (BUP) — A six-goal effort by Captain Cliff Sepka led the New Westminster junior Salmonacs to an 18-7 conquest of the Manitoba All-Stars Thursday night and gave them the Western Canada Junior Lacrosse championship.

The Salmonacs now meet the Long Branch Monarchs in Toronto Sept. 14 for the Minto Cup — emblematic of Dominion junior lacrosse supremacy.

Manitoba swept into contention with a one-goal lead after five minutes of play and at one time piled up a 3-1 lead. Sepka came back to spark his mates to a 4-4 tie at the end of the first canto.

Manitoba kept on the offensive, and only expert tending by Salmonac goalie Wally Davis kept the score to a near minimum. Sepka came through with his fourth goal of the night to tie the score at the half-way mark, 5-5.

Manitoba appeared to tire and lost their smart defensive and offensive play in the third quarter. New Westminster pumped in six tallies in that frame against one for Manitoba.

Dark Horse Leader in Eastern Open

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP) — Ralph Lomelli, never a major tournament winner in four years of playing "on and off" the circuit, sported a two-stroke lead in the $15,000 Eastern Open today as he led a field of 120 golfers into the second round.

Playing with a bent putter, the unheralded Lomelli shot a sizzling six under par 66 in Thursday's opening round to move into first place.

Trailing him closest at the end of the first 18 holes were Julius Boros, the National Open champion of 1952, and John O'Donnell of Norfolk, Va., each with 68's. Bracketed at 69 were Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., Andy Gibson of Baltimore, Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Avery Beck of Kinston, N.C.

Alfred Joyce Wins Home Freezer In Draw at Home Appliance Show

Alfred G. Joyce, 1632 Ross Street, was the winner of the second-night door prize at the Home Appliance Show in the curling rink Thursday.

Mr. Joyce's prize was a home freezer. His ticket was drawn by Mrs. Doris Anderson, 1045 Summit Avenue, who was winner of the first-night door prize, a television set.

The show, sponsored by Victoria North Kiwanis Club, continues tonight and Saturday.

Today's door prize will be an electric range. The prize on Saturday will be another television set.

Close to 3,500 persons viewed the electrical devices on show Thursday. Biggest single item of interest continues to be the "See Yourself on Television" feature. A fashion show held in conjunction with the appliance display provides an opportunity for Victorians to form an opinion on the new shorter-length Dior creations.

ARBITER SETS SALMON PRICE TO SETTLE CHUM CONTROVERSY

The drawn-out dispute between operators and fishermen over prices for 1952 fall chum salmon has been settled.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced Thursday that Judge J. B. Clearihue, appointed earlier as an arbiter, has rendered his decision.

He has recommended 7½ cents for Johnstone Straits; 6 cents a pound for central and northern areas, and 5½ cents for Queen Charlottes.

The fishermen were on strike for about two months last fall, but agreed to return to work when the government put the question of prices before an independent arbiter.

Appeal Court Orders Help for Appellant

Hearing on Nitro-Glycerine Possession Case Adjourned for Transcript of Trial

B.C. Court of Appeal adjourned Thursday afternoon hearing of an appeal brought by Robert Douglas Morgan against his conviction in Victoria County Court last May 12 for unlawful possession of nitro-glycerine under suspicious circumstances.

He was sentenced to three years.

The adjournment was ordered for the court to obtain a full transcript of Morgan's trial. Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan suggested the adjournment following a summary of the trial evidence by Morgan himself and Crown counsel J. Ronald Grant.

Facts of the case showed Morgan was taken into police custody shortly after 7.40 p.m. on the night of March 21 when a patrol officer saw him and another man standing close together behind the rear of a warehouse on Pandora Avenue. The officer went to investigate and the two men fled.

The policeman, Constable Kenneth Wainwright pursued Morgan. He ended the chase on Cormorant Street by firing a bullet through Morgan's hand. The other man escaped.

FOUND LATER

Not until 9.45 p.m., did police search the area behind the warehouse and discover the bottle of nitroglycerine with which Morgan was charged with possession.

Morgan, before appeal court Thursday, argued that "anyone from any part of the city would have had time to plant that there between the time I was taken into custody and the time the police discovered it."

Mr. Grant stressed that found on Morgan's possession at the time of his arrest was a pair of cotton gloves, a large paper shopping bag and a flashlight.

He said, too, that Constable Wainwright had observed Morgan, during his flight, to throw away a package. The officer later identified the package in court and it was found to contain a short crowbar.

These things, Mr. Grant said, together with the nitro-glycerine and detonator caps later found by police near the spot where Morgan and the other man had originally been observed, represented "a complete safeblowing kit."

Circumstances of the case, he said, were consistent with guilt, and inconsistent with any theory of innocence.

"CLOSE TO LINE"

Chief Justice Sloan, in view of the Crown's admission that there was no evidence of direct possession, termed the matter "a case very close to the line which needs a close scrutiny."

Morgan told the court he had been informed a transcript of his trial would cost about $185, and he had sent that amount to the official stenographer. However, he complained, the day before his appeal was scheduled to be heard he was told the price would be $315. He said he could not afford this added amount.

Chief Justice Sloan acknowledged usual procedure called for appellants to supply transcripts if they desired them but thought special circumstances existed in Morgan's case. He suggested Crown counsel ask the attorney-general's department to pay the differense so that transcripts would be available.

He made clear he would not have made the suggestion had not Morgan made a bona fide effort to supply a record of the trial proceedings.

The court is expected to consider the case again sometime within the next ten days.

Greeks Propose Higher Taxes to Aid Victims

ATHENS (Reuters)—Greeks will pay more for their cigarettes to help the 85,000 homeless of the earthquake-stricken Ionian islands under budget proposals announced by Finance Minister Constantine Papayannis. New houses, inland postage and totalisator betting will also be made more expensive to raise 172,000,000,000 drachmas (more than $5,500,000) for relief work.

15 Million Population By 1954

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's population should reach 15,000,000 by New Year's Eve.

The bureau of statistics made that rapid calculation Thursday after estimating that at June 1 the population totaled 14,781,000. This was an increase of 351,000 over the June 1, 1952, number and of 772,000 over the official population of 14,009,429 recorded in the ninth decennial census June 1, 1951.

• In the post-war period immigration has contributed heavily to the increase. The total increase since 1946 has been more than 2,500,000. One-third, or 880,000, have been immigrants, 307,000 of them from the United Kingdom.

At Confederation in 1867 Canada had a population of 3,789,257. In the 86 years since the number has swelled by 11,091,743. This is an average annual increase, including the years of two world wars, of nearly 129,000.

Jury Clears Police, Hospital In Death of Toronto Youth

WHITBY, Ont. (BUP)—A coroner's jury rejected an immigrant couple's claim Thursday night that their son was buried secretly because Toronto police had killed him.

Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Dudziec said through interpreters that they "firmly believed" their son, Joe, had been beaten in a Toronto jail and sent to the Ontario mental hospital here to die.

Dudzeic, 20, was arrested when he went berserk and tore off his clothes at a baseball game. Remanded in court, he was sent to the hospital and was buried before his parents even knew he was dead.

After a five-hour inquiry, the jury absolved police and hospital officials of any blame in his death. It did, however, recommend that "more care be taken" in completing official documents which accompany an arrested person to a mental hospital.

OSOYOOS GROWERS CHARGE STORES PUSH U.S. PRODUCE

OSOYOOS, B.C. (CP)—Growers in the Osoyoos district have demanded a province-wide impartial investigation of crop distribution.

At a meeting attended by Frank Richter, member of the Legislature for Similkameen, the growers contended that the Marketing Act governing sale of fruit and vegetables was unsatisfactory in its present form.

They urged that all phases of the industry be investigated by an independent body with the view of finding a solution.

The growers claimed the sale of vegetables has been decreasing, while the population and the public's spending power have increased.

They charged that wholesalers have cultivated the idea among retailers that Okanagan produce was inferior because they make a larger profit on United States produce.

Free Exchange of World Currencies Held Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain's spokesman at the World Bank and International Monetary Fund meeting told officials of 55 countries Thursday that this is a "time of fleeting but great opportunity" for a concerted move toward an old-fashioned free exchange of currencies.

Reginald Maulding, British governor on the boards of the twin world financial organizations, spoke after the fund's annual report was made public. The report offered greater fund backing to countries moving toward a freer exchange of their currencies.

But Maulding and other speakers said—and Ivar Rooth, managing director of the fund, suggested—that the fund's present dollar resources are too small to deal with the calls that probably would be made on it in the face of widespread relaxation of exchange controls.

The implication was that if convertibility is to come about soon, the United States would have to help by increasing the monetary fund's supply of dollars. The fund could then underwrite convertibility to a large extent, standing ready to make short-term loans of dollars to countries that cut their currencies free from exchange restrictions and found the demand on them for dollars was greater than their reserves.

W. Randolph Burgess, deputy for monetary affairs to George M. Humphrey, secretary of the U.S. treasury, gave no indication in his speech of the U.S. reaction.

P.E.I. House Standings Same After Liberal Win

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (BUP) — Standings remained unchanged today in the Prince Edward Island legislature after voters elected Liberal farmer Harold P. Smith to represent Fourth Queens riding made vacant by the appointment of Premier J. Walter Jones to the senate at Ottawa.

Results from Thursday's by-election showed Smith had defeated independent Leo Praught by 1,087 votes to 452. His election left representation in the legislature at 24 seats for the Liberals and six for the Progressive Conservatives.

BIG CLEANUP

VANCOUVER (CP)—Japanese seamen mopped the waters of Burrard Inlet in a painstaking cleanup of oil accidentally discharged from their ship. The oil fell into a small enclosed space between booms and the sailors cleaned it up with old magazines and newspapers.

CABINET WAITS FOR ADVICE ON MILK POLICY

Decision on a new milk policy has been delayed until next week, Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan announced Thursday.

The cabinet had two sessions on the problem Thursday, but finally decided to ask the B.C. Milk Board to clarify some of its recommendations.

The issue revolves around the government's earlier proposal to decontrol milk prices above the producer level. The move has been strongly opposed by producer and distributor organizations.

South Africa Proposes Increase in Gold Price

WASHINGTON (CP) — Gold-producing South Africa Thursday proposed an increase in the world price of gold from its present fixed base of $35 an ounce in United States currency.

The proposal was immediately rejected by the U.S., the world's biggest gold buyer.

The proposal was made to the International Monetary Fund meeting here.

South Africa said a gold price increase would be logical now that trade is more normal, that special assistance programs have declined and there is a world desire to achieve adequacy of reserves and ensure the maintenance of international financial liquidity.

Replying immediately for the U.S., Randolph Burgess, deputy secretary of the treasury, said his country could not approve of an increase. He said such a move would be inflationary and would undermine not only programs of the International Monetary Fund but the "sound money program" of the U.S.

Modern instruments measure planet temperatures very accurately, and that of Mercury registers 621 degrees Fahrenheit.

9 Canadian Cities Show COL Rise

OTTAWA (BUP)—The cost-of-living indexes in six of the nine main cities of Canada rose during July, the bureau of statistics said today.

They were St. John's, Nfld.; Halifax; Saint John, N.B.; Toronto; Saskatoon, Sask., and Edmonton. Small drops in the regional indexes were recorded in Montral, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The bureau said mixed changes were noted in food prices in all centres. Meat prices held relatively stable, but egg prices continued to rise seasonally, and fruit and vegetable prices were mostly lower.

On the basis of 1939 prices equalling 100, the regional indexes were (August 1 figure in brackets): *St. John's, 101.9 (102.9); Halifax, 174.8 (175.6); Saint John, 182.4 (183.8); Montreal, 192.2 (191.8); Toronto 183.3 (183.7); Winnipeg, 178.9 (178.6); Saskatoon, 185.1 (185.5); Edmonton, 179.0 (179.8); Vancouver, 188.8 (188.0).

(*) The St. John's index is on the basis of 1951 prices equalling 100.)

Civil Servant 40 Years, Frederick Tatham Passes

Frederick Moore Tatham, who was employed on construction of the Legislative Buildings and later worked for the provincial government for 40 years, died Thursday at St. Joseph's Hospital in his 89th year.

Born in Southport, near Liverpool, England, Mr. Tatham came to Canada as a lad more than 70 years ago. He worked for the CPR in the interior of B.C., later moving to Vancouver. He was in the mainland city at the time of the big fire.

Following work on the government buildings, he was employed first as gardener and later in maintenance. He retired in 1936.

A keen gardener, Mr. Tatham won many competitions in Victoria. He was also an active outdoor sportsman and well-known in fishing and hunting circles. He was a member of the Sons of England Lodge.

Canon O. L. Jull will conduct funeral services Saturday at 1 from Sands' Mortuary. Interment will be at Royal Oak.

Mr. Tatam is survived by four daughters, Mrs. L. E. Jones, Mrs. W. Smith and Misses Ethel and Laura Tatham, with whom he lived at the family residence, 836 Vernon Avenue.

ONT. FIREMEN, HYDRO CREWS LEARN LOVE'S LABOR LOST

TRENTON, Ont. (BUP)—The town hydro and fire departments avoided each other on the street today.

A resident called in the fire department when the hydro began burning dry grass on a hill east of here. As fast as a fire was set on one side of the hill, the firemen put it out on the other.

The crews finally met sheepishly when each climbed to the top of the hill to see what was going on.

Hundreds See United Church At Work as Exposition Opened

"If you want to see what the United Church is doing, look around you."

Those were the words of Rt. Rev. A. A. Scott, Moderator of the United Church in Canada, Thursday night when he opened to Victorians the church's traveling exposition, set up in Metropolitan Church Hall.

Several hundred people were on hand for the opening.

During their time at the exposition, first-night spectators obtained not only a wealth of information on United Church work, but had a lesson in sociology; a refresher course in world geography; learned interesting facts about people of far-away lands; met missionaries from such places, and had a chance to examine some interesting exhibits.

Young Rev. Roy Neehall, from Trinidad, in the rich, deep tones of his race, explained not only the Christian school program in that island country, but took time to show what sugar cane looks like and to explain how the outside skin is made into a fabric and used for mattresses.

KOREA HEARD FROM

Dr. C. C. Kim, in an adjoining booth, told of conditions in the Orient and particularly of his own native Korea.

He told of the great swing to Christianity in that war-torn country, and recounted how the Chosum Theological Seminary, where he was attached, was blown to bits by bombs and rebuilt out of U.S. ammunition boxes.

Evangelist Hugh Irwin, from Sunnybrae, Nova Scotia, who has spent the last 13 years as a missionary in Banswara, India, told of the work of the Christian hospitals in that country.

He added a word on how bribery has become an accepted practice in India; how Prime Minister Nehru's picture appears on posters everywhere, demanding that bribery stop, but how a train reservation means nothing unless the traveler is willing to slip several rupees to those with whom he must deal.

WORK AT HOME

The exposition points out, too, many things about Canada and the work of the church at home.

One display shows the service provided by the United Church's 19 Canadian hospitals, staffed by 16 doctors and 106 nurses and caring for 50,000 patients annually.

Another exhibit shows the work of the church in the field of rehabilitation, telling, among other things, how 15,000 unmarried mothers and their babies have been given aid through United Church agencies since 1925.

The exposition is free and will be open daily from 2.30 to 5 and from 7 to 10 until Sept. 17.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1953

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

One of the saddest botanical developments of this century is the passing of the aspidistra.

Despatches from London inform us this plant, once a universal household pet over 'ome, has almost disappeared. Where there were once hundreds of thousands, there are now only a few hundred lovingly preserved by their owners as links with the old order.

Here in Victoria, too, the aspidistra was once as much a part of the front parlor furniture as the what-not in the corner and the Dresden figurines on the mantel.

Now there are thousands o' teen-agers who have never even seen an aspidistra.

Why the aspidistra lost its appeal, no one knows. I am told that in England, at one time, the "front room" windows of nine out of 10 houses in any street framed an aspidistra.

The plant was a sort of Victorian-age symbol of solid respectability—dull green, sturdy, incorruptible—often resting on the family Bible or on a bamboo pedestal. And, of course, invariably associated with antimacassars.

As the plant grew, imperceptibly, it blotted out more and more light. It had no peer as a dust catcher, and had little grace to recommend it, but it was passed along from generation to generation, a sort of leafy heirloom.

Those who wish to join in mourning the passing of the aspidistra may like to remember it enjoyed more than a century of popularity. Returning voyagers from China brought the plant to England about 1820, and it quickly became a vogue. One theory is that its popularity was due to a nostalgia for the land brought about by the industrial revolution.

Sturdy sons of the soil, exiled from the land and cooped up in tiny houses near factories, longed for a bit of green, and the aspidistra answered their needs.

It was also a plant which adapted itself quickly to English tradition, and seemed to thrive on the dregs from the tea-pot which were invariably dumped into its soil.

It also had an important role in British mystery stories, as the place where the hero dumped the wine which had been drugged by the villain.

There is no record of an aspidistra dying from this treatment.

One theory about the aspidistra is that Gracie Fields laughed it out of existence.

If this is true, it is probably the only unpleasant thing ever charged against Miss Fields.

Ah, well, there may, some day, be a resurgence in the popularity of the aspidistra.

If that happens, it will be a sign the world is once more aware of the values of respectability and dignity.

Appeal Court Moves To Assist Prisoner

Counsel to Help Cranbrook Indian In Appeal Against Life Sentence

B.C. Court of Appeal directed today that in the interests of justice the Attorney-General's Department appoint a lawyer to act for 37-year-old Cranbrook Indian, Joseph Bernard Andrews, appealing a life sentence for manslaughter.

The court's direction came after Andrews appeared in person before the court here but was somewhat tongue-tied, and apparently knew not what to say.

The case was adjourned after Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran pointed out the advisability of having counsel represent the appellant since it appeared he was "not quite capable of putting over his own case."

Andrews was charged with murder following a fatal attack on his wife last winter at Cranbrook. The jury found him guilty of manslaughter.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, who presided over the trial, imposed the maximum sentence since he considered the case "a most bloody and cruel killing."

WENT FOR A DRINK

Evidence disclosed Andrews' wife and her mother went to spend the night with another Indian family when they learned Andrews and his brother had gone to town for drink.

Andrews, returning to the reservation, went in search of his wife and finding her, demanded she return home with him. Trial evidence disclosed she said she would return in the morning, whereupon Andrews attacked her and dragged her outside.

She escaped his first attack and returned to the house of her friends but Andrews followed and attacked again, this time with a knife.

"All witnesses heard a sound like water pouring on the floor," Mr. Justice Wilson wrote in his report to Appeal Court. "This was blood gushing from an artery in her arm which was cut."

The judge pointed out witnesses testified Andrews kicked his wife, beat her, and then dragged her out by the hair. He reported she was left, almost naked, bleeding to death in the snow outside.

Andrews is appealing against sentence only and not conviction.

During his brief time in court today he claimed life in prison was "a common penalty for murder."

Mr. Justice O'Halloran quickly pointed out this was not the case; that death by hanging was the only penalty imposed when a murder verdict was returned.

A. de B. McPhillips appeared for the Crown in the case.

On the bench with Mr. Justice O'Halloran were Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson and Mr. Justice H. I. Bird.

THE LATE C. A. GWYER

Veteran Fireman, C. A. Gwyer Dies On Prairie Trip

Charles Andrew Gwyer, 63, member of the Victoria fire department for 38 years, died suddenly Tuesday in Dauphin, Man., while on a trip with his daughter, Mrs. V. L. Strickland, 3419 Bethune Avenue.

Mr. Gwyer joined the department April 4, 1912, and retired March 31, 1950, with the rank of deputy chief.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. E. G. Arnold, New Westminster; a son, Walter C. W. Gwyer, Victoria, and five grandchildren. His wife died in May of this year.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m., September 17 at McCall Bros. chapel, and interment will be at Colwood Burial Park.

Nursing Home Vote Result Due in Hour

Results of a city plebiscite next Thursday on the Victoria Nursing Home will be known about an hour after polls close at 7 in the City Public Market. Frank Hunter, returning officer, said today.

He anticipates a light vote on the by-law, which, if approved, would permit the city to apply $150,000 in city land sale funds as its share in a proposed $450,000 addition to Victoria Nursing Home on the Gorge Road.

Only property owners may vote as it is a money by-law. The last comparable vote—a school loan by-law in June of 1950—drew 2,097 voters. Votes taken other than at the regular December elections are usually light, Mr. Hunter said.

"If we get 2,500 out we will be doing very well," he said.

He speaks in a general way on "The Stewards of Christian Influences."

The traveling exposition will be open until 9.30 tonight and Saturday, and from 2.30 to 4.30 Sunday.

Monday is the last day of the display, valued at $35,000, and representative of areas around the world where the United Church of Canada operates. It will close at 8 p.m. Monday.

Crowd Swarms to Cattle Judging In Preference to Cowichan Rodeo

A three-hour rodeo, judging of cattle, and square dancing drew the largest opening-day crowd in history Thursday to the annual Cowichan Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition.

A disappointingly small part of the total crowd, however, attended the rodeo that attracted a large number of entries and provided entertainment worthy of a much bigger show.

Perfect sunny weather brought hundreds to the cattle judging, when Ralph Rendle, Saanich, won first prize in the Holstein senior championship with his 2,500-pound bull, and Henry G. Robinson, Royal Oak, won the grand championship for Holstein cows.

An Ayrshire calf owned by Arthur Ross, Nanoose, defeated 71 other entries in the 4-H Club class to win the Stevens Cup.

Judge was Oliver Evans, Chilliwack, who replaced Harold Hicks, Agassiz, when the latter was taken ill on his way to the fair.

DANCING DOMINATION

Up-Island clubs dominated square dancing competitions that provided contrasting entertainment to the rodeo, and a combined rodeo and square dance jamboree at Cowichan Arena closed the program for the day.

Tonight's rodeo will start at 6.30, and dog obedience trials and a gymkhana will begin at 7.30.

Saanich Vote On Beach Road Plan Tuesday

Saanich council will decide at a special council meeting next Tuesday whether it will support a plan of municipal engineer H. D. Dawson for a seaside road and access to beaches in the Gordon Head area.

The plan became the subject of a controversy at a council meeting last Monday when G. A. Vantreight and Paul Arsens asked for waterfront rights for a new subdivision at the foot of Ferndale Road.

While not opposing the subdivision, Mr. Dawson urged the council to refuse the application for waterfront rights as it would prevent the eventual construction of a mile-long marine drive and roads to three beaches in the area.

The majority of councillors appeared to favor the engineer's plan, but Reeve Joseph Casey and Clr. George Austin appeared undecided.

Clr. H. K. Bate opposed the engineer's plan on the grounds that it was not feasible and that he was "overzealous" in protecting the rights of the public.

The special meeting to decide the issue was called by Reeve Joseph Casey after councillors viewed the property Thursday night.

Plasterer Badly Hurt In Twelve-Foot Fall

A plasterer who tumbled 12 feet from a scaffold to a cement floor was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital today with a fractured pelvis and a fractured right arm.

Admitted was Harry Palmer, 30, of 4436 Torquay.

He was working inside a building presently being completed at Gibson's Bowladrome on Yates.

Presenting the clubmen's gift above is J. G. Ruttan. Modest winner of medals for Highland dancing, Mary also is a pianist, "strictly long-hair," she says. She heads for UBC shortly, hopes to teach primaries, but might "change my mind." An orphan, Mary has lived in the city nine years. Her Oak Bay High alma mater was represented at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel function by principal C. A. Gibbard.

Man Remanded on $1,000 Tire Robbery Charge

Edward James Minnie, young Victorian, was remanded to Monday for formal commital for trial in a higher court following a preliminary hearing in city police court today on a charge of breaking and entering a warehouse August 17 and committing theft.

He is alleged to have entered the warehouse of the firm of Stewart & Hudson Ltd., 405 Gorge Road, and stolen 13 winter truck tires valued at about $1,000.

Preliminary hearings of John Deighton, 3557 Tillicum, and Jaswant Singh Dillon, Victoria East Indian, were still in progress in the same court at press time. Deighton is charged with receiving stolen goods, nine tires, from Minnie, and Dillon is charged with illegal possession of four tires. In both cases police say the tires were the property of Stewart & Hudson.

Broadcasting station CKDA's application for a power increase from 250 watts to 1,000 watts will be herd by the board of governors of the CBC in Winnipeg on Sept. 24, it was announced today in Ottawa.

Application for transfer of CKDA's license from David M. Armstrong to the Capital Broadcasting Co. will also be heard at that time.

Another application to come before the board at the Winnipeg meeting seeks the transfer of 300 shares in CJVI.

The applications have been referred by the Federal Department of Transport, for decision by the board of governors.

Six Months in Jail For Shopbreaking

A six-month jail sentence was imposed against Stephen H. Michaud, 25, Victoria, when he appeared before Magistrate H. C. Hall at a sitting of Saanich police court Thursday on a charge of breaking and entering and committing theft.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall was told that Michaud was involved in break-ins at Moraes Steak Shop, Douglas Street, and Safeway Cleaners, Quadra at Cloverdale, on the night of Aug. 15-16, and that he gave himself up to police.

Carl Kibsgaard, 1621 Quadra, charged with entry of the same premises, has elected preliminary hearing and has been remanded to Sept. 17.

$56,998 Tender Wins Twilight Housing Job

An early start is to be made on four new units for elderly people with limited means at the Twilight Homes Development near St. Luke's Church on Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Twilight Homes Ltd., which is sponsored by a committee of the Anglican Church, has awarded a contract for construction to McKinty & Sons, whose bid of $56,998 was the lowest of four tenders considered.

Contract decision was made Thursday.

Other tenders were from Farmer Construction Ltd., $57,923; H. E. Fowler & Sons Ltd., $58,443, and J. A. Pollard Construction Co., Ltd., $61,949.

The four new units will provide accommodation for 16 single pensioners. Each unit will provide self-contained quarters for four.

The new buildings are to be erected on the north side of Cedar Hill Cross Road, west of Ophir.

Charles Craig, of the architects' firm of Sharp & Thompson Berwick Pratt, has designed the new units.

Architect's sketch shows how next four Twilight Homes will appear when buildings are complete and property landscaped.

ASK The TIMES

Q. How and when did Labor Day originate?

A. Oregon State, in 1887 passed the first law recognizing the first Monday in September as Labor Day. In 1882, 1883 and 1884, however, the United States Knights of Labor had paraded on that day in the City of New York and agitated for legal recognition of the celebration. On June 28, 1894, Congress passed a bill making the day a legal holiday throughout the Union. The Canadian Parliament passed a similar bill in the same year.

Q. Can a former United States citizen living in retirement in Canada draw Social Security? A.T.

A. Immigration officials say United States citizens are drawing Social Security while living in this country. Full information on the matter could be obtained from the office of the United States Consul in Vancouver.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Week-End Shoppers Will Find Produce Prices Still Low

By PENNY SAVER

You don't mean to tell me it's Friday! Man, how this week has flown. That's the trouble with having a holiday at the beginning of the week . . . it puts everything off schedule.

Let's see now . . . Friday . . . mmmmmm . . . oh, yes! Guess you folks are waiting for some up-to-date prices of fruit and vegetables, eh? Well here they are, so get out your little notebook and pencil and we're off!

I'll bet the seedless green grapes are at their all-time low right now! Well, all-summer low, anyway. Price is just 15 cents a pound.

What did I say the price of damson plums was last week? Was it 25 cents for two pounds? Think so! Anyway, they're just 19 cents for two pounds today, so if you haven't started preserving yet, now's a good time!

While I'm mentioning plums, those tiny nectar-sweet golden drop plums are a mere 10 cents per pound . . . prune plums are 15 cents a pound . . . greengages are 23 cents for two pounds.

Watermelon, which was selling at 7 cents a pound for so many weeks has slid to 5 cents a pound . . . and there's still plenty of it around.

Speaking of hanging around, I saw some strawberries again this week! Can you imagine it? At this rate we'll be eating fresh berries all winter! Can't say I'm kicking at all, though. Price, believe it or not, has dropped 6 cents from last week's tag. They are now 39 cents a hallack.

* * *

As usual I've been thinking only of tempting fruits for desserts, forgetting that first of all we must have a main course. You housewives are just as concerned about the prices of vegetables I know, so I'll see if I can save a few pennies for you with them, too.

Vegetable marrow seems to have taken the biggest price drop this wee' . . . only 3 cents a pound, now! Celery is 7 cents a pound; huge parsnips are 12 cents each; beets are two bunches for 13 cents; potatoes are 10 pounds for 29 cents; red cabbage is 10 cents a pound; green cabbage is 8 cents a pound; tomatoes are 19 cents a pound and carrots are three pounds for 25 cents.

Homebody Husband Won't Take Spouse Anywhere

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When a man never wants to leave his home except to go to work, how can a wife persuade him to take her out? A woman writes:

Hurlock

(Q) "I have been married for 10 years and have two children. My husband took me out on the fourth of July week-end and we enjoyed ourselves very much. That was the first time I have been out with him in six years. He said he'd never go out again. I simply can't understand him. If I ever do go out, I have to go with someone else. Now he has a two-week vacation. I want to leave the children with Grandma and we could go away for a week. Our friends are going away and asked us to go but he won't. Of course I'd love to. His mother says he might just as well put me in a cage. He is just foolish about this whole thing and I can't do a thing to change him. What do you suggest?"

(A) I suggest that you drop the matter and let your husband sit home, if that's what he wants. Even if you could persuade him to go along, he would probably be so grumpy and disagreeable that he would spoil all your fun.

There are some men who do not like to go out and who hate to travel. They get set in their ways, dislike doing anything that differs from their usual routine, and complain that nothing is so good as it is at home.

Unquestionably your husband is stubborn about this matter because he knows how you and his mother feel about it. The more you talk about it the more stubborn he will get. So, stop asking him to take you out.

As long as the children's grandmother is willing to take care of the children, you can have some fun with your friends at home by going to movies, going shopping, or going to their homes. You really could not leave your husband at home alone, but you can have a break in your routine and the semblance of a vacation by varying your daily routine. That is the best you can do, except to hope that your husband will eventually get tired of being in one place and will want a change.

Eyes and Ankles Are Chief Readers' Problems Today

Q.—"Give me some hints please about eyeglasses — how often they should be checked and what kind to wear for looks. I have a long, thin face."

A.—Eyeglasses should be checked periodically, once a year anyway, and always when you feel the slightest strain in seeing, or if your lids become irritated. Not only the lens, but the frames, should fit perfectly. Virtually everyone's face is a bit different on each half. Your glasses should be fitted to both sides of your face. Since you have a long, thin face I suggest that you avoid the upswept frames and wear a style which has a straight-across line. One of the darker shades would be best for shortening the appearance of the face.

Q.—"I noticed that you said not long ago, 'Don't use black eyebrow pencils but always brown.' I never use anything but black eyebrow pencils. I am sure I am not the only woman who uses black eyebrow pencils, not by a long shot. Some of the smartest women I know use black and I am sure will continue to do so."

A.—That is certainly their right. I was simply letting you in on a little secret which the experts know. When you have black brows the dark brown pencil makes them look blacker but in a much softer, more natural way.

Q.—"My ankles are very large. When I wear good shoes, especially with pumps, the part above my heels hangs down over my shoes. I have tried making circles with my toes for several months, and it hasn't helped."

A.—Thick ankles are often an inherited characteristic and it is very difficult to change these. The toe circling exercise is one of the best. I wonder if you did it enough times daily? You should do about 40 circles with each foot morning and night. If there is any real swelling you should see a physician. This can come from organic or systemic disease.

Q.—"Last winter I strained my eyes with school work. Now I wake up every morning with red lids and dried pus or something on my lashes. Is there any eye wash that will help?"

A.—This is definitely a matter which needs immediate investigation. You may need glasses and may also have an infection on the lids. See an oculist.

Q.—"Will lemon juice make me thin? I have heard that it will."

A.—No. The only way in the world it could make you thin would be to drink so much of it that it unsettles your stomach and therefore takes away your appetite, so forget that old wives' tale.

Unlike other butterflies, monarchs go south when winter comes. They return in spring, flying hundreds of miles, only to lay their eggs and die.

40,000 Members Is PTA Aim For 'Better Parenthood Week'

The week of September 13 to 19 is being observed by the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation as "Better Parenthood Week." During this week an appeal is made to all parents with children in school to become members of the federation by joining their local parent-teacher association. Emphasis is laid on responsibility to the child and the work the federation is doing toward the mental, moral, spiritual, social and physical development of the child.

Objectives are to make fathers and mothers more fully aware of the importance of using best possible methods in care and training of their children and to acquaint them with sources of help and information in handling problems of family life.

Another aim is the encouraging of formation of groups for study and discussion of child-rearing, to promote more co-operative understanding between parents and teachers, and between school and community at large, and to lend active support to all community efforts for better schools, child health, recreational facilities, vocational guidance and prevention of delinquency.

One of the important factors of PTA programs is the weekly radio broadcast, which keeps a wide variety of information flowing into homes in the Greater Victoria area. This year Mrs. J. W. Sulbury is to be in charge of this valuable feature of the work. She succeeds Mrs. A. Taylor. Programs are heard on Sundays at 10 a.m. over CJVI.

MRS. J. W. SULSBURY . . . radio chairman.

This year the goal of the membership committee has been set at 40,000 members.

Her fingertip veil cascaded from a halo of tiny white flowers, and red roses with white stephanotis formed her bouquet.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By EDWIN JORDAN, MD

Finding Allergy, if Any, Is First Step in Asthma Case

Asthma is both a common and a miserable affliction. Someone troubled with asthma will cough, have wheezes in the chest, and probably suffer shortness of breath.

It is not too difficult for the psysician to diagnose asthma by listening to the chest through a stethescope, and by studying X-ray films. These methods not only aid in making the diagnosis, but also give invaluable information on how serious the condition is and what treatment would be best.

The seat of the trouble is principally in the bronchi, small tubes leading from the main breathing tube, or trachea, into the lung tissue itself. The walls of these bronchi become thickened, narrowed and filled with mucus.

TUBES CONTRACT

Sometimes the bronchial tubes also undergo contractions or spasms which still further narrow the space through which the air can pass. This narrowing explains the shortness of breath—it is simply that not enough air gets through to the lungs. The coughing associated with asthma is nature's way of trying to enlarge the openings.

Asthma is usually due to allergy, that is, to sensitiveness of the patient to some substance outside his body. Such substances may be inhaled proteins like horse dander or something eaten. When the offending substance can be identified and eliminated from the vicinity of the asthma victim, the results may be highly satisfactory. Even when that cannot be done, treatment which is not aimed at the allergic cause is sometimes quite successful.

TREATMENT MAY HELP

Treatment of a sinus infection, for example, often helps Other treatments which have been used include the direct application of an iodized oil, the use of X-rays and breathing gaseous mixtures containing oxygen and helium. Lately cortizone and ACTH have been found most useful in some cases.

Change of location or climate brings varying results—some are helped, others are not. A person with asthma who is forced to consider such a change, however, ought to give the new location a good long trial period before deciding on permanent residence.

Bowker Creek 'Re-Routing' Undertaken

Re-routing of 600 feet of Bowker Creek in the Doncaster Road area is now under way by the city public works department City Engineer Cyril Jones said today.

General safety will be improved and cost of maintenance lessened by the "straightening out" of a stretch of the creek, which has long been a bone of contention with many residents. They feared danger to children and the area was fenced last year Mr. Jones said.

Much work will still have to be done, as a progressive project he said.

The present job takes the creek off private property and puts it alongside the road at one point.

"We hope to do another section next year," said Mr. Jones. "There are many points at which the creek runs through private property, but it would be too costly to remove it all from private lands at one time."

The job now under way is expected to cost about $3,000. Maintenance of culverts will be less expensive when they follow the roadway than when on private property, Mr. Jones said.

GANDHI MEMORIAL

NEW DELHI (CP)—A model prepared by the central public works department has been accepted by the Mahatma Gandhi memorial design committee, set up in 1950 to advise the government of India on a design for a Gandhi memorial at Rajghat. The memorial is estimated to cost the equivalent of $360,000.

Antibiotics Improve Taste Of Whisky, Up Food Supply

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO (AP)—Antibiotics are becoming wonder drugs to save food crops from costly plant disease, give us more and tastier meats, even aid in making beer and whisky.

These new uses of antibiotics were described Thursday to the American Chemical Society.

Bean plants sprayed several times with streptomycin— a TB fighter in man — were completely protected against halo blight, a serious bacterial infection.

Only a fraction of one per cent of streptomycin sulfate was used in the spray under field tests, said Drs. W. J. Zaumeyer, Dr. H. Rex Thomas, and J. R. Mitchell, United States department of agriculture plant industry antobiotic to control a plant disease.

Other reports tell of good results in combatting firebright disease on apples and pears with a spray containing terramycin and streptomycin. Drugs are being tested against disease of tobacco, tomatoes, potatoes, lettuce and other plants.

Antobiotics are part of new methods of improving tenderness, juiciness and flavor and keeping qualities of meats, said Dr. F. E. Deatherage, H. H. Wiser and Prof. L. E. Kunkle of Ohio State University.

Antibiotics are being used also in feeds to make pigs, chickens, and calves grow faster, for more meat at savings in feed bills. There's also evidence that some antibiotics can make plants grow faster and better.

Antibiotic ice, containing a trace of aureomycin, promises to preserve fish longer, said Dr. H. L. A. Tarr, J. Boyd and H. M. Bissetts of Canada's Pacific fisheries experimental station, Vancouver. Attempts also are being made to improve canned foods and other food products with antibiotics.

(BB) "DANGEROUS WHEN WET" (ROYAL) — This is a hot weather picture, made to order for those who would like to take a vicarious dip with Esther Williams.

It also helps if you are interested in channel swimming.

For that is what the story is about.

The plot, in brief:

Papa William Demarest, in addition to being a farmer, is a physical culturist from the word go. He raises Mama Charlotte Greenwood, daughters Esther, Barbara Whiting and little Donna Corcoran on steady diets of training.

This pays off when traveling salesman Jack Carson gets the idea to enter the entire family into the English Channel Swim. It has its implications on the other side when Esther meets champagne salesman Fernando Lamas.

Tuneful, light, fluffy and gay, M-G-M's Technicolored gives Miss W. plenty of opportunity to swim. She swims solo, with Lamas (an old swim champ himself, I understand) and—for variety—with cartoon heroes Tom and Jerry plus a merry old octopus.

The channel swim itself grows quite tense. But the plot has a tendency to bog every now and then; however, for very ancient ancients like this reviewer it was a fine feeling to see Charlottle Greenwood cavort again. One forgets how very long and agile her legs are.

As is usual in almost all Esther Williams' pictures, the photography is superb.

In recapitulation: If you feel hot and uninteresting "Dangerous When Wet" could quite easily refresh you. Certainly it can't do you any harm.

Hydra-Matic Fire Cuts General Car Output

Fire, which halted output of Hydra-Matic transmissions, finally has affected auto production.

U.S. output declined in the last week of August by 126,139 cars and 24,358 trucks . . . as a direct consequence of the Hydra-Matic blaze. But despite the cut-down, General Motors turned out is two-millionth car of the year a day or so ago.

BRIDGE LESSON

—By Oswald Jacoby

Could anything be more useless than the three and the two of hearts in the North hand shown today? They had no value as trumps since declarer's best suit was independent and since he didn't need to ruff anything in the dummy. Nevertheless they were important cards, and South lost his contract because he overlooked their function.

West opened the jack of clubs, and South won in his own hand with the ace. South promptly drew trumps with the ace, king and queen. This was a fatal error, as we shall see.

South next led a spade towards dummy, West played low, and dummy was able to win with the king of spades. There was now no convenient way to return to the South hand, so declarer led a diamond towards his king. West naturally won the trick with the ace of diamonds and returned another club, forcing dummy's king. This settled declarer's hash. He was now sure to lose a club, two diamonds and a spade trick.

Dummy's small trumps were useful as a way of getting out of the dummy and into the South hand safely. After winning the first trick with the ace of clubs, South could afford to draw one trump and one trump only.

The correct play is then to switch to spades, whereupon West would play low and dummy would win with the king. Now South would return to his own hand with a trump. Only after making this play would it be proper for South to draw the third round of trumps.

South could now afford to lead his second spade, and West would be unable to defeat the contract. If he took the ace of spades, South could get to dummy with the king of clubs in order to discard a club loser on the queen of spades. If West did not take his ace of spades immediately, dummy would win with the queen and South would not lose any spade trick at all. Either way, of course, South would make his contract very easily.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1953

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Getting together with experts who understand insurance, salary, allowance, pensions, romantic problems and stating your own preoccupations produces some fine ideas which you can use now.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Today is unusually good for taking the results of your best judgment to colleagues for cementing concrete arrangement for future association. Get all kinks ironed out now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Fixed obligation arises to demand your patience and perseverance. Be stalwart and refuse to be sidetracked by temporary fun. Give meticulous attention to your job and then relax.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Get out early and have haircuts, beauty treatments, manicures, apparel modernized to bring out your greatest charm, gifts. Later, enjoy proven pleasures with congenial companions.

LEO (July 22 to August 21)—The need for repairs at home hits you directly between the eyes early today. Get all gadgets, plumbing, kitchen, bathroom shoddiness modernized for more efficient use.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22)—Get that correspondence you've been talking about, but never attended to, behind you. Also, take a shopping expedition for supplies that can last for some time to come.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)—Looking at your present income and making it stretch to meet modern expenses is easily accomplished when you expand your consciousness to realize that any lack comes from your own limitations.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21)—Be as highly personal as you like. Give good, long objective look at where you are headed, how far you have progressed, what you need to do to increase future well-being. Put decisions into effect at once.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21)—Take time to investigate the actions of others which tend to restrict your overall co-operative and less independent.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—This is the sort of day you will like, for you see all sorts of practical jobs to be done. Use that high sense of awareness to come closer to your aims. Make goals a part of yourself now.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Slow down; consider what the public generally, higher-ups, officials think of you. Make a fresh start with an eye to the opinion of the world.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Your over-all ambitions have a good chance of being successful if you study individual items that will round out your knowledge to bring a complete picture of where you are going.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SATURDAY . . .

A child born Saturday is one of those very interesting youngsters who will take an idea and hold and cling to it as tenaciously as any bulldog. It is important that the right slant on proven principles is presented early in life to your very worthwhile progeny, who can be just as detrimental a force if such right thinking is not presented early in an interesting fashion. The responsibility is up to you, who have the care of this talented Virgo child. Find future in investigating or financial vocations.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1953

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Limitation imposed by another, materially or emotionally, early keeps you from putting well thought out plans in effect. Await a later day when one at home makes all easier, happier.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Long delayed job at home, which another keeps driving you to do, should be completed patiently in forenoon. Then, jaunt with neighbor or relative to amusements brings jollity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Repairs to family dwelling cause much discussion if you yield to pressures. Keep calm, postpone talking things over until later when you have real co-operation.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Early, feeling of depression can limit you in performance of necessary chores. Keep busy—get in supplies, work at routines. Then later day brings unexpected entertainment you like.

LEO (July 22 to August 21)—Arguments early with those close to you produce nothing but headaches and heartaches all around. In your clever manner, avoid them. Later day brings quiet happiness, advance in assets, too.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22) — Sarcastic comment, unnecessary expense, futile trip, can easily be avoided early by keeping out of the path of others and by getting needed rest. Help those worse off. P.M., enjoy amusing friends.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)—Early a.m. suggestions of extravagant friend would entail far more financial burden than you can afford at present. Be tactful, put the matter off now. Later day brings deserved compliment.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21)—Protect your reputation at all costs by taking no chances of any kind during a.m. Then, tensions lift, good friends take you to meet interesting personalities with new doctrines.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21)—You want to get away early but duty requires you to complete responsibilities first cheerfully. Then influential official gives you boost toward desirable improvements.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Determination to have your own way in securing personal ambition could alienate usually generous, understanding associate, who resents drain on relationship. P.M., see advice of progressive chum.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Women, misunderstanding your motives, are likely to criticize you sharply to one able to lessen your good name unless you explain carefully. Later, flash hunch improves working setup.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Desire to fix up quarters more attractively appears to cost far more than you can afford at present. Instead, concentrate today upon entertaining associates in unique manner.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SUNDAY . . .

A child born Sunday is one of those very determined individuals who will expect a very great deal in early life and actually will need to learn just how much effort is required to attain the good things in life before an appreciation of the benefits received will be understood. So, try to have your offspring sell newspapers, magazines, whether boy or girl, in earliest possible years. Later life then becomes very benign, charming and delightful. Fine chart for profession requiring exactness and preciseness.

Carroll Righter's individual 16-page ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST booklet for October is now ready. For your copy send your birth date and 25c with a self-addressed and stamped envelope to Victoria Daily Times Forecast, Box 350, Madison Square Station, New York 10, New York.

British Laborites Spurn Bid for More Red Trade

By ALEX VALENTINE

DOUGLAS, Eng. (Reuters)—British trade unions Thursday refused to press the government to increase trade with Communist countries.

The Communist-led Foundrymen's union asked delegates at the Trades Union Congress conference at the Isle of Man city to "demand that steps be taken to initiate such trade talks as will bring about unrestricted world trade, including trade with the Soviet Union, China and the countries of eastern Europe."

The motion was intended as an amendment to a report from the TUC leadership that full-scale trading with the East would have to wait for the easing of political problems.

Delegates representing 8,000,000 British trade unions threw the support of 5,404,000 of their members against the Communist motion. They accepted the leadership's contention that increased trade with Communist countries before an improvement in the international situation would be "putting the cart before the horse."

W. L. Heywood, introducing the general council report, declared: "If the present truce in Korea results in a political settlement we may hope that trade may then expand."

Heywood criticized claims that trade with Communist countries would help British economy.

"Wheat is one of the biggest imports from Russia. Last year Russian wheat was 50 per cent dearer than wheat from Canada, and 40 per cent dearer than wheat from the United States," he said.

Looking at Communist delegates, Heywood roared: "Any considerable increase in imports of grain from Russia must have meant an increase in the cost of living of British workers."

"That is what you have been asked to agree to in the propaganda that has been conducted on this issue."

Thursday was a day of victories for the cautious, moderate policies of the big trade union leaders.

First, all Communist candidates failed to gain seats in the elections for the general council, policy-making body of the TUC.

Another big issue on which the trade union leaders scored was wage restraint.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harvey Storey, manager of Vancouver Capilanos, will be released when his contract expires at the end of this season, general manager Dewey Soriano said today.

Soriano said he is "disappointed" by the showing of his club in the second half of the Western International League baseball season.

"Harvey and I had a talk," Soriano said, "and we agreed there were no excuses if we weren't in the fight. So then we hit that eight-game losing streak. . ."

Fagan Denies Report

"It is absolutely not true," he told the Associated Press in a telephone conversation from his home in Hawaii.

Stage Hunger Strike in Oakalla After Weird Proceedings in Court

By BRUCE LEVETT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vegetarian Doukhobors, foodless for more than 24 hours, went on a hunger strike today in Oakalla Prison Farm.

The 148 prisoners, charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency by nude parading, had refused to eat since they were herded aboard a prison train from their Slocan valley tent town Wednesday.

They entered Oakalla at midnight following a bizarre court scene in a tiny municipal hall and this morning officials of the warden's office announced that they had refused breakfast.

"They didn't get bedded down until nearly 3 a.m.," the official said. "We sent down cooked cereal to them when they started getting up at 9 o'clock, but they did not touch it.

"They can't cook their own food yet, we haven't got the stoves set up for them."

Warden Hugh Christie said a prayer session was held in the confines of the women's hut with some of the prisoners lying naked on the floor as they prayed.

Prisoners range in age from teen-aged bobby-soxers to aged, white-bearded men.

Warden Christie said only some of the very old were given "a little soup as a special dispensation," by others of their sect.

His men will not interfere with prayer sessions held inside the huts, Warden Christie said. The Doukhobors were segregated due to necessity and not because of prison policy.

John Kominoff, spokesman for the prisoners, said he did not know when the fast might end.

"We will know when to eat when the time comes," he said. "A message from God will tell us."

The prisoners were passengers aboard a Canadian Pacific Railway prison train which arrived here Thursday night from Perry Siding, 39 miles northwest of Nelson, B.C. They were occupants of the tent town of Polatka, ordered emptied by RCMP.

Oldster

Matriarch with her bundle was typical of elder members of the sect as they arrived in Vancouver.

TV Cameras Record Scenes

The accused, arraigned before Magistrate Graham Ladner in a small community hall in suburban Burnaby in a court scene described as "weird" by RCMP guards, were remanded until Sept. 17 for hearing.

On their arrival they were ushered from three CPR prison coaches to four express buses.

About 25 newspaper men from Vancouver, Victoria and Toronto watched as photographers fired dozens of flashbulbs and television cameras recorded the scene.

From the downtown station, the buses, convoyed by city police motorcycles and RCMP radio cars, carried the accused men and women 10 miles to Jubilee Labor Hall, one mile from Oakalla.

The prisoners, guards, plainclothes men, newspaper men and interpreters crammed into the small auditorium while a large crowd gathered outside.

The Doukhobors, reputedly all members of the Radical Sons of Freedom sect, sat quietly for nearly an hour waiting for the magistrate to arrive.

It was 10 p.m. when an unidentified woman began haranguing the prisoners from her seat near the front, shouting in Russian.

Over the stage, where the makeshift magistrate's bench had been set up, was the motto, "Human Needs Before Property Rights," chiselled in stone.

The harangue broke off and the prisoners began to chant, louder and louder as the RCMP guards—12 in uniform—moved relentlessly up and down the aisles. A pigtailed girl of about 15, one of the prisoners, cried with her head in her hands and the crowd began to sing "Nearer My God to Thee" in Russian, eight-part harmony.

The crying girl collapsed into the arms of another teenager and was assisted by RCMP guards and a matron outside to the darkened buses. Perspiration rolled from the faces of the singing Doukhobors and guards doled out water from an old kettle and a coffee pot.

One guard, assisting an aged man, muttered "weird."

Likely to Make Child Delinquent

When order was restored, Capt. Vladimir Pogoretzsky, interpreter from Nelson, read the names of the 148 accused and the charge was read by Crown Prosecutor John Farris, QC.

"You are each charged that on Wednesday, Sept. 9, 1953, at Perry Siding, B.C., you did unlawfully and willingly do an act likely to make a child a delinquent—to wit, expose his or her naked body in the presence of a child contrary to laws and statutes so provided," the charge read.

Disorder broke out again when Mr. Farris said an additional charge of being nude in a public place would be laid next week.

A Doukhobor indentifying himself as William Postnikoff made an angry statement in Russian which was interpreted as a demand that Premier Bennett, Attorney-General Bonner and Doukhobor spiritual leader Sorokin be called to attend the Sept. 17 hearing "as mediators."

Sorokin, spokesman for the more moderate sons, is in South America investigating settlement possibilities for the 2,500-member sect there.

(Jailed Sons of Freedom Doukhobor's request that Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Robert Bonner act as intermediaries at their trials was rejected today.

"I haven't heard of any such demand," Mr. Bonner said, "but it is most irregular. I see no reason to act as intermediary. The matter is now before the courts."

Premier Bennett said he had no official request.)

Postnikoff's demand went unanswered by Magistrate Ladner.

Douks to Get B.C. Vote, Marriages Recognized

Premier Bennett Hints Legislation Ready for New Session of House

Legislation giving B.C.'s Doukhobor population the right to vote and recognition of their marriage ceremony will be introduced at the coming session of the Legislature, Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated today.

The premier, asked about these two phases of the Doukhobor rehabilitation proposal recommended by the Doukhobor consultative committee, said:

"Our policy is to give full citizenship rights to these people. There will be no delay in our program."

The Doukhobors have never voted in B.C., and their "bread and salt" marriage ceremony, conducted without the presence of clergy, is not recognized.

Thus their children have no real status.

Premier Bennett said the government expects the Doukhobors, in return for the new privileges, to take on the responsibility of citizenship.

"We will treat them fairly," he said.

CALLS FOR SUPPORT

Premier Bennett, referring to the government's current efforts to get Doukhobor children to school and the resulting acts of violence, asked for the support of all citizens during "this trying period."

"This is one of the many problems to which this government fell heir," he said. "There is no patent medicine solution to a problem of this nature."

Meanwhile, the government is putting the final touches to its new "drinks-by-the-glass" liquor legislation which will be presented to a government caucus Monday at 10 a.m.

The caucus discussion may result in some changes to the proposed legislation before it reaches the floor of the House.

Details of the revised drinking laws are a well-kept secret but Premier Bennett has said the system will follow closely that recommended by the Stevens Commission, which held public hearings around the province.

This will mean B.C. will have cocktail lounges in hotels, a new beer parlor system, to be known as a "public house" system, which will allow sale of food with beer, and sale of liquor in restaurants.

HOT DEBATE SEEN

The liquor legislation undoubtedly will be one of the most hotly debated of the session.

The government, it is understood, has had a difficult time drafting a suitable local option clause for the revamped distribution system. This is one of the phases bound to spark spirited debate.

The government's Rolston Formula, a new school financing system, may not produce the fireworks it did last March when the issue defeated the minority government.

Reason is that the most controversial part of the plan, that dealing with sales tax shares to municipalities and fixing the basis for educational grants, may be held over until February session.

Toronto Milk Drivers Reject New Agreement

TORONTO (BUP)—Striking AFL milk truck drivers crossed up their union leaders today and turned down a settlement offer that would have ended the city's one-day milk strike.

The 1,700 drivers refused to accept a provision in the agreement making a five-day delivery week mandatory, although the Ontario Milk Control Board has made the provision law.

Labor Minister Charles Daley, who negotiated all night to reach the agreement, has said he was ready to start all over again tonight if the drivers turned down the agreement.

The strike that cut off milk deliveries to 400,000 families burst into controversy and actual violence hours after it was called Thursday to climax months of argument over cutting deliveries.

Two strikers were arrested on charges of malicious damage and aggravated assault when five drivers for two non-striking dairies were beaten up while making deliveries.

Red Admits Allied PWs Held Back

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A Red source admitted today for the first time that the Communists are holding back some Allied war prisoners who want to go home.

A Communist correspondent, Wilfred Burchett, said a crack U.S. jet pilot and an undisclosed number of other Allied airmen are being held as special prisoners because the Communists say they were shot down over Manchuria—forbidden territory to Allied pilots in the Korean war.

Burchett of the Paris L'Humanite, who often reflects official Red thinking, said release of the airmen would have to be negotiated through "diplomatic channels," but he did not elaborate.

The Allied command demanded Wednesday that the Reds account for about 3,500 Allied troops—three of them Canadians—who were known once to be prisoners, but who were not released in the recent PW exchange.

RABAT, Morocco (CP)—A high-powered car today ran down the new Sultan of Morocco as he was riding on horseback to pray at the Touara mosque here.

The 64-year-old ruler was hurled to the ground. His guards opened fire, killing the driver.

Missouri Residents Calm With Deadly Cobras on Loose

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UP)—Six or seven deadly cobras were feared hiding in Springfield's alleys, yards and gardens today, but the Ozark city accepted the danger with almost incredible Missouri calm.

"Life goes on," said Mrs. Homer Kesterson, head of the parent-teachers association. "We might have one right downstairs but I'm not going down to see."

Six of the hooded reptiles have been found and killed already, and police chief Frank Pike said he believed "six or seven" were still loose.

How the snakes, native to Africa, India and other Asian areas, got loose in Springfield was not definitely known, but they have been found in the neighborhood of a pet shop.

KATHY ARCHIBALD

RECITES HUTCHISON PIECE

B.C. Girl Learns Fate Saturday

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—Stately five-foot eight-inch 133-pound Kathy Archibald, Miss Canada, anxiously awaited the decision of the judges to learn her fate in the Miss America contest Saturday.

The Kelowna lovely went through her talent performance Thursday night with a recitation, "Canada the Unknown" from "The Unknown Country," by Bruce Hutchison.

The experts were up against it today. They couldn't pick a favorite at this late stage in the judging for the top beauty.

This year there doesn't seem to be a standout.

The so-called experts talk about Carol Segermark, who is Miss Chicago. Also about Miss Pennsylvania, Evelyn Ay, and likewise Miss Wisconsin, and Miss Oregon and a lot of other misses and near misses.

All of which simmers down to this: Up to now there are four girls in the running and any one of them—or all—could stub a toe or lose a treble.

Labor Declares War on GOP As Durkin Quits

WASHINGTON (UP)—Union leaders today took the resignation ofLabor Secretary Martin P. Durkin as a signal for open political warfare with the Eisenhower administration over revision of the Taft-Hartley Law.

They predicted that any attempt by President Eisenhower to heal the breach by bringing another union leader into his cabinet will be rebuffed.

Durkin, president of the AFL Plumbers' Union and the only Democrat in the Eisenhower cabinet, resigned Thursday with an angry blast at administration handling of the Taft-Hartley revision issue.

"Now we'll take off the gloves," said a union source when Durkin's resignation was announced.

The other plunged into the arsenal near buildings where hundreds of employees were working. The pilot, seriously injured, was taken to a hospital while firemen of the Woolwich and South London fire brigades put out the flames with chemicals.

Typical of the 103 children of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors who have been taken over by the B.C. government and placed in charge of the Children's Welfare Home at New Denver, are Christine Perekoff, right, and Eileen Lastoff. It was announced today by Premier Bennett that recognition of Doukhobor marriage laws is included in the legislation to be presented at the session opening Tuesday. Postnikoff's demand went unanswered by Magistrate Ladner.

The prisoners were rounded up Wednesday night in the Slocan Valley tent town they had set up after their homes were destroyed in recent fire raids blamed on members of their own sect.

They were sized in a military-like raid ordered after they refused either to disperse or send their children to school, which they claim is against their religion. They gave up without resistance.

The Communists have indicated they would reject the demand, but have not said when they would reply officially.

An Indian spokesman said today the Indian custodial forces expect to receive in a few days, possibly Monday, the first Communist-held Allied prisoners refusing to go home.

Little is known about the Americans and South Koreans who refused to take part in "Big Switch." Not even the number is certain, although the Communists indicated there were "about 20" non-Koreans and some 380 South Koreans who have elected to remain behind the Iron Curtain.

WAR ON WASPS

THIRD IN A SERIES

Single Yellow Jacket Sting Can Be Fatal, Savant Says

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL

If wasps possessed no sting they would be nothing more than a nuisance because of their persistent buzzing about our food and our persons.

However, to receive a sting from a wasp is no light matter and under certain conditions it can be extremely serious indeed.

Dr. Carl

Normally, the wasp uses the sting for killing or paralyzing its insect prey; it will turn on a human only when provoked. Usually this is accidental as when the wasp is squeezed or injured by placing the hand or other part of the body on the insect when it is going about its own business.

On such occasions a single sting usually results, and unless it is on the face it amounts to no more than a local irritation with minor swelling which may persist for several days.

It is is a different matter when the nest is disturbed. When this occurs the insects swarm out in a mass attack and the visitor, whether guilty or innocent, may receive a large number of stings before getting clear of the pests.

Children particularly get badly stung on these occasions because they seldom sense what is happening in time to retreat quickly. Moreover, because of their smaller body weight and lack of immunity the reaction is much more severe than in the case of an adult.

A badly stung child may need medical attention and possibly hospitalization.

While multiple stings are usually not fatal, a single sting in the back of the mouth or in the throat may well cause death by asphyxia. In this location the swelling cuts off the air from the lungs so that unless medical aid is given very soon the victim dies.

Such a fatality occurred in Victoria some years ago when a man drank a glass of fruit juice in the dark. The glass apparently contained a wasp which had fallen into the liquid during the day but which was still lively enough to sting though half-drowned.

The chances of recurrence of this accident are extremely remote but real danger exists where people are eating and drinking out-of-doors in wasp-infested areas.

On such occasions care should be taken to keep the insects away from the food and each mouthful should be examined to prevent a wasp entering the mouth.

The stinger of a wasp, like that of a bee, is a modified ovipositer; instead of being used for laying eggs it functions as a hypodermic needle, piercing the skin of the victim and injecting venom.

Essentially, it is a lancet-shaped or spear-shaped organ consisting of two halves concave on their inner surface to form a tube through which the poison is pumped.

As the insect stings, the two halves of the dart are thrust downward alternately and very rapidly being guided by parts of a surrounding sheathe.

In bees the darts have recurved hooks near the tip so that the organ can not be easily removed. Usually the bee escapes by tearing the stinger loose from her body leaving it in the victim; mortally wounded the insect eventually dies.

This is not so in the case of the wasp. Because the stinger has no hooks it can be removed and used over and over again.

During the season a number of males and females develop in the colony in addition to the workers and the queen.

With the first cold weather the males and the workers die and the fertilized females seek some shelter in which to pass the winter. This may be in cracks or crevices around trunks of trees, under loose bark or in rubbish piles; a favorite place is in wood stacked out-of-doors.

Since the survivors each become a queen of a new colony in the spring a severe winter is the best natural control for these pests. The large number of wasps this year is partly the result of the mild weather we experienced the prvious winter and if our next cold season does not bring with it a period of freezing weather we can expect another good crop of yellow jackets to plague us next summer.

Them Douks would hev bin favorites o' President Roosevelt. They were ill-housed in th' tents, ill-clothed in th' parades, an' now they're ill-fed in their hunger strike.

Funny so many folks are keen t' git in at th' openin' o' th' House an' th' closin', but don't worry much about whut goes on in th' middle.
